Fire hits Central Hardware

Arson is indicated in a fire which caused extensive damage in the sporting goods department at Central Hardware, Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center, at 3:35 p.m. Sunday.

Officials believe someone punched holes in the tops of two cans of fuel for camping lanterns and stoves, turned the cans on their sides and allowed the flammable liquid to flow onto the floor and down the aisle.

A customer noticed the liquid on the floor and notified a store employee, but the liquid ignited while the employee was on his way to investigate.

Firemen found a burned pack of matches which they believe was thrown into the fuel to ignite it.

The fire flared quickly, filling the store with smoke. Central Hardware employees quickly used fire extinguishers to try and control the fire and had

THIS PORTABLE DEFIBRILLATOR might help save your life someday. St. Elizabeth Hospital officials say. The compact machine, designed to shock a person's heart back into movement, has been installed in the emergency room. The Lifepak 4 defibrillator, one of the newest models to date, acts like a "spark" to the heart, according to Evelyn Walker (center), emergency room registered nurse. In the event of a cardiac arrest, the heartbeat sometimes can be restored by placing two round disks on the chest and adjusting a few knobs, she said. The machine can take a continuous electrocardiogram pattern, which can be kept as a permanent record, showing what the heart does during and after the shock. Another advantage, she added, is the availability of the machine; because of its mobility, the defibrillator can be transported anywhere in the hospital. Viewing it are Dr. Francisco Dioneda (right) and Adrian Fairbanks (left). R.N.

Madison school budget hiked by half-million

A tentative operating budget of $3,938,366 for the 1975-76 school year — an increase of $801,491 over that of last year — was approved by the Madison Board of Education Thursday night.

The appropriation bill was approved for public display during the next 30 days and the board set Sept. 27 for a public hearing and final board action on the measure.

The hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the school board offices, 1707 Fourth St., where the budget is now on display.

The new budget projects expenditures of $3,168,801 in the educational fund, increased $366,301 from last year's $2,799,500 educational fund appropriation.

John Palchiff, superintendent of schools, said the hike in the educational fund appropriation results from inflationary increases in costs and higher salary schedules for faculty and other school employees approved earlier this year.

Anticipated expenditures in the building fund are fixed in the new budget at $396,500, up from last year's $340,000, accounting for an additional $126,500 of the overall budget hike.

The budget lists anticipated revenue of $2,653,952 in the educational fund. With $631,199 in balances at the beginning of the current school year, the district expects total available funds of $3,285,151, to meet expected costs in that fund without incurring a deficit.

Building fund revenue is anticipated at $311,999, with beginning balances of $64,497 for total available funds of $376,496, sufficient to meet projected expenditures.

The new budget for transportation cost is fixed at $104,000, up from $72,200 last year, confronting the district with a prospective deficit during the school year in this account.

The account had a $15,400 deficit at the beginning of the year, with anticipated revenue projected at $99,593. This leaves income of $84,193 against the budget expenditures of $104,000, or a possible deficit of $19,807.

For bond and interest payments the new budget lists expenditures of $134,065. This account had a $47,856 balance at

Ambulances collide

Two ambulances operated by competing firms and responding to the same call, collided at Madison Avenue and Nameki Road at 3:15 a.m. Saturday, damaging both vehicles.

Involving were a Thomas Ambulance emergency vehicle driven by Daniel Partney and a Mercer Ambulance vehicle driven by Thomas Saksa. There were no injuries.

Both were responding to an emergency at the Jack-in-the-Box Restaurant where a youth was struck by a hit and run vehicle which caused numerous injuries, including a compound fracture of his left leg.

Both drivers contended they were called to the accident by the Granite City Police Department. A check of the police department's log book, in which calls are recorded, indicates that Thomas Ambulance was called to the accident.

Officials of both firms met during the weekend in an attempt to resolve issues of ambulance jurisdiction.

right bumper of the Mercer vehicle striking the left rear of the Thomas ambulance, according to the reports.

The driver for the Thomas firm said the impact nearly tilted the Thomas ambulance over.

Rt. 151 bid call

The Illinois Department of Transportation said Friday bids will be taken Friday, Sept. 5, on installation of 1.18 miles of concrete pavement on Federal Aid Route 151 (Great River Road) from Niedringhaus Avenue in Granite City south to Broadway in Venice.

Also scheduled are: Steel beam guardrail and headrail removal on Illinois Route 111 in Madison County from the St. Clair-Madison county line to the Madison-Jersey county line.

Bridge deck repairs to 12 bridges at six locations on Interstate 270 between the Chain of Rocks Canal and Route 111 north of Pontoon Beach.

Patching, waterproofing and resurfacing of 15 bridge decks on Interstate 270 from west of Glen Carbon to northwest of Troy.

The Transportation Department announced that bids will be received Sept. 5 for a total of 84 highway and airport improvement projects.

The projects have a value of $70 million. The next regularly scheduled letting is to be held Oct. 14.

Teachers ratify new salary pact

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

Granite City public school teachers voted Thursday, by a two-to-one margin, to accept a proposed working agreement on salaries, fringe benefits and procedures for the 1975-76 school year, assuring the opening of school here tomorrow.

The agreement must yet be ratified by the Granite City Board of Education at the board's Sept. 2 meeting before it becomes official.

About 325 members of Local 743, American Federation of Teachers, gathered at the Labor Temple in Granite City Thursday for a two-hour discussion on the proposed agreement. Discussion was followed by a voice vote whether to adopt the document. The voice vote showed a clear division of opinion and a standing vote was called for. Union officials estimated about 100 persons stood to vote against adopting the document, while about 225 voted to accept it.

In the discussion which preceded the vote, several provisions were discussed, including money, seniority, insurance and other areas.

The new working agreement is a two-year document which calls for negotiations only on the salary schedule at the end of the first year.

In addition to cost of living increases, the basic salary schedule for teachers increased from $100 for beginning teachers with bachelor's degrees while salaries for some teachers increased as much as $650.

Teachers with a bachelor of arts degree will receive $9,100 in their first year of teaching, up $100 from last year.

The new salaries for bachelor of arts degree teachers in their second through 12th years of teaching, with last year's salary in parenthesis, are: $9,800 ($9,450) $10,800 ($10,300), $11,400 ($10,800), $11,750 ($11,150), $12,100 ($11,500), $12,450 ($11,850), $12,850 ($12,250), $13,300 ($12,700), $13,750 ($13,150), $14,400 ($13,800) and $15,100 ($14,500).

The pay in the 13th and highest step will be $15,900 for those with bachelor's degrees, up $600 from $15,300 last year.

Those with bachelor degrees and 150 hours additional college credit will receive $250 more per year than those without the additional credits. Another $250

Sharp rise in GC crime

Major crime cases occurring in Granite City during July increased 45 per cent over the number of such cases reported in the same month of the previous year, according to a report by Chief of Police Ronald Veizer.

The total of 364 crime cases in eight categories reported last month also was an increase of 35 cases, or 10.6 per cent, over the number of cases occurring during the previous month of June this year, the report showed.

A total of 56 cases cleared by arrest during July was an increase of 10, or 21.7 per cent over the 46 cleared in the same month of the previous year, but a decline of 17.8 per cent below the 66 cases cleared by arrests during the previous month.

The report showed increases last month in seven of the eight categories of major crimes, with a total of 14 robbery cases compared with only one robbery in July 1974 and four during the previous month.

One homicide was reported in July, compared to none in July of the previous year and none in June. One forcible rape case was reported in July, same as in July 1974, and the same as reported in June this year.

There was a total of 31 assault cases in July, up from 21 in July 1974 and up from 27 in June this year. July burglary cases increased to 81 from 64 in the same month a year ago and from 69 reported in June.

The report shows that an increase of 97.1 per cent in the number of auto burglaries occurred in July, with a total of 69 cases during the month, compared with 35 in July 1974. The July total, however, was a drop of five auto burglaries, or 6.7 per cent, below the total of 74 cases reported in June this year.

A total of 141 larceny cases

Crime

was reported last month, up 27, or 33 per cent, over 114 such cases occurring in July 1974, but an increase of only two such cases over the 139 reported in June.

Twenty-six auto thefts were reported last month, an increase of 11 over the 15 reported in July 1974, but only two over the 24 reported in June this year.

According to the report, the one homicide occurring in July was solved, while two of the 14 robbery cases were cleared by arrests. Twenty-five of the 31 July assault cases were cleared by arrests, compared to 17 cases cleared in July 1974.

Five of the 81 July burglary cases were cleared by arrests, compared to 11 cases cleared out of 64 burglaries that occurred in the same month a year ago.

One of the 69 auto burglary cases was cleared in July, compared to four cases cleared in July of the previous year, when 55 cases occurred. In the previous month of June, however, 20 of 74 cases were cleared by arrests. None of the 26 auto theft cases was cleared in July, compared with three of 15 cases cleared in July, the previous year.

The report showed a total of 366 crime cases reported in all eight categories, compared with 465 cases out of 251 cleared by arrest in July 1974.

On this basis, police cleared 15.3 per cent of all major crime cases occurring in July, compared to 18.3 per cent cleared in July of the previous year.

The report showed a total of 125 accidents in the city last month, compared with 108 in July 1974, with 45 persons injured in 31 accidents and property damage involved in the remaining 94 mishaps. These statistics compare with 30 persons injured in 25 of the 108 accidents occurring in July 1974.

Arrests during July totaled 285 with 41 additional charges filed for a total of 326 charges. This compared with 325 arrests and 43 additional charges for a total of 368 charges filed in July last year.

The Police Department handled 2,301 complaints last month, recovered 19 stolen autos, made 24 varcar arrests and arrested 11 for having faulty mufflers.

Fire hits

greatly reduced the flames by the time firemen arrived.

Fire Chief Don Parente commended the Central Hardwear employees for their quick reaction in emptying 19 fire extinguishers on the blaze by the time firemen arrived.

Cashiers reported many customers fled from the store when the fire started. Many of them had items in their hands and left without paying for the items. Only one man later returned to pay for a can of paint he carried when he fled.

No estimate of the damage has been made as store officials are attempting to determine the value of the stock destroyed.

Damage was limited primarily to the stock on the shelves and to the shelving. There was some damage to the floor tile and the powder from the fire extinguishers made cleanup efforts difficult.

The store reopened at 4:35 p.m. yesterday after a partial cleanup.

Attend funeral

Mr. and Mrs. Harold (Goldie) Fischer of Granite City returned this weekend from Kewanee, Ill., where they attended the funeral Friday of Mrs. Fischer's sister, Mrs. Roman (Clara) Wilke, 89, of Los Gatos, Calif. Mrs. Wilke died Monday in Los Gatos.

CAR GOES INTO DITCH

A one-car accident in front of Lake Grade School, East 20th Street and 31st Route 182, resulted in injury to the driver, Mrs. Pamela Coleman, 21 of Edwardsville at 6:10 a.m. yesterday.

She reportedly was turning onto 23rd Street and slid off the shoulder of the street, striking a tree before going into a ditch. She was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital here with tenderness to the left side of her head. X-rays of her skull, spine and chest were taken. Mrs. Coleman was charged with careless driving.

TRADING STAMPS TAKEN

A railroad trading stamp book, $100 cash, keys and papers were stolen from Mrs. Bessie Phillips, 67, of 2120 Benton St., as she was walking along Third Street near Madison Avenue in Madison and a young man grabbed her purse last week. It was reported in error that the trading stamps were food stamps.

Albert Cartwright, 74, dies

Albert E. Cartwright, 74, of 2328 Waterman Ave., a retired employee of General Steel Industries, died at 6:45 p.m. Sunday at St. Elizabeth Hospital where he had been a patient two weeks.

incentive increase is added for those with 175 hours above their bachelor degrees and those with master degrees will receive yet another $250 per year.

The highest rank is for those with master's degrees and an additional 180 hours of credit which starts for new teachers at $10,100.

The salaries for teachers with master degrees plus 180 hours of credit in their second through 12th year of teaching are: $10,800, $11,800, $12,400, $12,750, $13,100, $13,450, $13,850, $14,300, $14,750, $15,400 and $16,100.

The top step for master degree holders with 190 additional hours credit is $16,900 for those with 12 or more years of teaching experience.

Additional benefits are provided for extra-curricular assignments.

In addition to the new salary schedule, and the "step" increases earned through another year of teaching, each teacher will receive a 6.75 per cent-of-living increase of $725 each.

Cost-of-living increases remain in the new contract at $25 for each one-half of one point rise in the average cost-of-living index as published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The new contract also includes increased fringe benefits, including improved health insurance. A new policy provides hospitalization benefits of up to $5,000 with no deductible, a $50,000 major medical policy covering 80 per cent of expenses after $200 in out-patient benefits, $10,000 term life insurance, and other provisions.

A spokesman for the Board of Education said he would not comment whether he feels the board will accept the agreement, but termed it a settlement which is "fair to all."

The spokesmen commended the teachers' union and their negotiating team for showing "great fiscal responsibility" in reaching agreement on a contract which is within the reasonable resources of the school district and the taxpayers.

At Thursday's union meeting to ratify the agreement, the union also installed its new officers. Shirley Stoll began her duties as the new president with Russell Chappel as the first vice-president and Floyd Clark as second vice-president. Loretta Woolbright is the new recording secretary, Larry Dicks is corresponding secretary and Richard Huff becomes treasurer.

AMBULANCES

Michael Baggot 18, of 2650 Edison Ave., who was struck by the car, was taken by Thomas ambulances to St. Elizabeth Hospital where a fracture to his left leg and possible internal injuries were diagnosed and he was transferred to Firmen Desloge Hospital, St. Louis.

Witnesses said Baggot and a woman motorist had a disagreement at the Jack-in-the-Box drive-thru lanes and Baggot had gone to her car to talk with her. He then walked toward Nameok Road and stepped from the curb where he was struck by a car traveling faster than the speed limit, witnesses told police.

The auto never stopped, driving quickly from the scene, police were told.

Police later stopped a car and questioned its driver, but did not have sufficient evidence to make an arrest, it was reported. Officers said there were scratches on the car's hood.

the beginning of the year and anticipates revenue of $130,610 for total available funds of $178,466.

Special education expenditures are projected at $93,000. If the district receives its full anticipated revenue of $24,091 in this account, the revenue combined—with a $69,301 balance should meet the budgeted expenses with a $382 balance at the end of the year.

The only other potential account deficit appears in the budget for the municipal retirement fund in which expenditures are projected at $75,000, up from last year's $65,000.

Income in this account is anticipated at $65,299 which, with a balance of $2,722, would give the district total available funds of $68,021, or a potential deficit of $6,979.

The board Thursday night also agreed on an extension of the student-teacher program, and approved the idea of a read-a-thon for Madison pupils as a multiple sclerosis project. Youngsters will solicit members of their families and friends to pay them a specified amount for each book the student reads.

Palfieff said the program is an incentive to read which benefits the participants, who contribute all the money they earn to the Multiple Sclerosis program.

The board received a letter from Albert Bell, highway commissioner of Nameoki Township, in which Bell said he believed the school district should be responsible for maintenance and operation of the traffic signal light at Sixth Street and McCanbridge Avenue in Madison.

Board members noted, however, that the school district was not a party to the agreement under which the light was installed, and that the light serves motorists and pedestrians as well as school pupils attending Madison schools.

Two teachers were employed. Nick Harrison was employed for assignment to a teaching

The board also received a letter from the county superintendent of education granting an extension of time for completion of the school's Life Safety Code program. Palfieff said the district has only one minor change to be made at the high school and several at Dunbar to comply with the code.

The board adopted a resolution abolishing the junior college tax levy account. This fund no longer is needed because the Madison district now is part of the Belleville Area College District which extends its own tax rate.

Services held for former resident

Funeral services were held on Saturday in Chicago for Harold "Hal" Stark, 60, of Chicago, formerly of Granite City. He died Thursday at Passavant Memorial Hospital, Chicago.

A veteran of World War II, he had been employed as a commentator for CBS television and WBBM radio in Chicago for 25 years.

RELEASE 35 DOGS.

A hole was cut in the chain link fence at the rear of the Granite City Animal Shelter on Route 3 and 35 dogs were either stolen or let loose between 6:30 p.m. Friday and 8:15 a.m. Saturday.

Amidst the crudeness of the remnants of the Illinois frontier and of its politics, he found beauty. He became recognized as a new force among poets, much sought after as a reader of his works. In his performances, he attempted to interest the public in poetry through a method he termed the "higher vaudeville," employing gestures, chants, rhythms, and other devices.

Mrs. Fay Bailey succumbs

Mrs. Fay Bailey (Bosworth), 50, of 1539 Market St., Madison, died at 2 p.m. Friday at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis.

She had been ill three months and in the hospital three weeks.

Mrs. Bailey, formerly a waitress, was a member of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' and Bartenders' International Union Local 102. She also was a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Madison Volunteer Fire Department.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Paul (Pamela Ann) Bargiel of Madison; four sisters, Mrs. Annawill Pread of California, Mrs. Thomas (Mary Ellen) Wyckoff of Madison, Mrs. Eldon (DeLoyce Ruth) Rhoads of Madison and Mrs. Vernon (Sandra Sue) Pumphrey of Venice; six

A second volume of poems appeared in 1914 further emphasizing his faith in nature, his patriotism, his belief in democracy, and a life close to the soil. He imagined the beauty of the virgin prairies of an earlier Illinois and spoke of "flowered buffaloes." He wrote of William Jennings Bryan's appearance in Springfield during the campaign of 1896, when Lindsay "joined the wild parade against the power of gold."

He wrote of Lincoln, "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight, in Springfield, Illinois," and hoped to "rouse the Lincoln in you all." His favorite pioneer hero appeared in one of his most significant poems, "In Praise of Johnny Appleseed."

Critics believe his best work was done before 1920. Perhaps this is related to the death of his father in 1918 and his mother in 1925, and for a time the loss of his family home near the Governor's Mansion, which he felt was taken from him by wealthy citizens to turn into a museum. He wrote at the time, "I am not going to be robbed of Central Illinois by anyone however deft and powerful they may be. The word Springfield is written in letters of Utopian Gold, is going into every paper and book I write until I die. It will be the mystic city of America. . . I will make Springfield a beautiful city yet."

In 1925 Lindsay was married, returned to Springfield, and eked out a scant existence performing his works before somewhat unappreciative audiences.

After Lindsay's suicide on Dec. 5, 1931, his friend and biographer, Edgar Lee Masters, wrote of the praise and respect brothers, Ben, Courtland, Jack and Frank Bosworth of Madison, Charles Bosworth of Granite City and Calvin Bosworth of Venice, and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements may be found in today's obituary column.

Mrs. Downing dies at 77

Mrs. Blanche Downing, 77, of Flat River, Mo., formerly of Granite City, died Sunday at a Farmington, Mo., nursing home.

Survivors include a son Roy Downing of Kansas City, Mo.; three sisters, one brother, five grandchildren and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Webb, 2841 Iowa St.

Her husband, Bob Downing, and a daughter, Edith Moyer, preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m., Wednesday at a funeral home in Flat River.

Encephalitis 'suspected' in area man's illness

A Quad-City area man who may have suffered from encephalitis is "doing just fine" today, according to his wife.

Robert Branch, 200 Hare St., Eagle Park, apparently has recovered from an illness which confined him to St. Elizabeth Hospital from about July 18, until Aug. 15, still not knowing whether or not his ailment was encephalitis, a disease commonly known as sleeping sickness.

Branch, 45, continues to recuperate at home and a date from him to return to his job as a lift truck operator at the National Lead plant Granite City has not been determined by his physician.

A tentative positive reading on an encephalitis test believed given to Branch was reported last week to Missouri Bureau of Communicable Disease in Jefferson City.

The case is the first in the St. Louis area to be known recently, although there have been eight confirmed cases and seven suspected cases in Illinois in the past few weeks, including two deaths, one in Flora and the other in Moline.

Mrs. Branch said today that her husband was "very, very sick when he went into St. Elizabeth Hospital." "He is doing just fine now. I don't believe he had what they say," she commented.

A blood sample taken from Branch was sent by his physician, Dr. Robert E. Kraetsch, a specialist in hematology, to the Federal Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., for examination.

An apparent clerical error resulted in the test report bearing only the man's name and indicating that the blood sample came from the St. Louis area, which caused a federal health official to contact the Missouri Bureau, it was learned.

Precise details of the case and whether or not Branch will be required to undergo additional tests are not yet known.

Encephalitis, a viral disease, is passed on by mosquitoes and not by human contact. There is little that physicians can do for the severe, or so-called "St. Louis" strain of the disease except to help the body's natural resources fight the disease.

Branch's tests indicated a possibility of the St. Louis strain because of a high anti-body count. However, the count could have remained high even after the patient had recovered from the virus, it was learned.

Symptoms include constant drowsiness, lethargy, severe headaches, fever and nausea. Older persons are particularly susceptible to the disease.

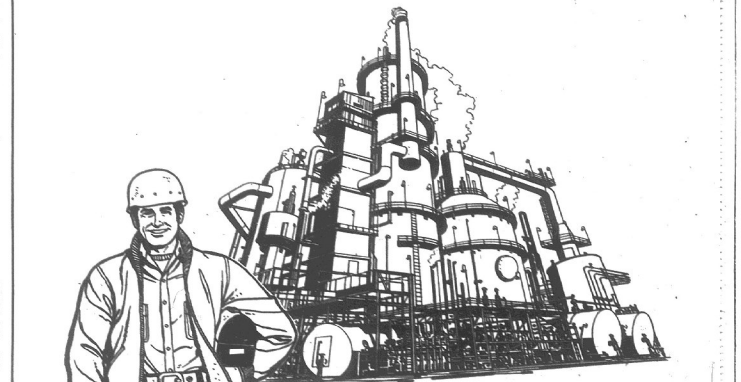

The disease is passed from birds to mosquitoes to man. Two major outbreaks of encephalitis in the St. Louis area in 1930s gave the severe strain its St. Louis name. This summer, an outbreak of encephalitis in Mississippi has killed 31 persons.

Advice offered by St. Louis health authorities suggest persons avoid mosquitoes in areas where water gathers.

Miss DeAnne Davenport weds Randy Ray Clark

The wedding of Miss DeAnne Davenport of Eldorado, Ill., formerly of Granite City, and Randy Ray Clark of Cynthiana, Ind., was solemnized on July 12 at the Eldorado (Ill.) First Baptist Church.

Officiating at the 8 p.m. double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Mike Glenn before an arch entwined with springerli, daisies and baby's breath.

Organist Fred Brockett accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Susan Glenn, as she sang, "If," and "You Are So Beautiful." Mr. Brockett sang "Colour My World."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Davenport Sr. of Eldorado and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clark, McLeansboro.

For her wedding, the former Miss Davenport chose a gown of crystal sate pail and Chantilly lace, etched with sequins. Bishop sleeves were set into the bodice featuring a scalloped sashina neckline. Her bouffant tiered skirt extended into a chapel train.

She wore a lace-edged finger tip veil attached to a Chantilly lace headpiece accented with seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was an arrangement of white daisies and yellow roses festooned with streamers of satin ribbon laced with baby's breath.

Miss Kathy Grisham was maid of honor and Mrs. Debbie Kiehlhorn, Miss Donna Cobb and Miss Vicki Clark, the latter a sister of the groom, served as bridesmaids. They wore identical halter dresses of dotted veil and Venise lace in maize, Nile green with matching the capes. Each attendant complemented her attire with a picture hat in matching shade and held a bouquet of yellow and white daisies, yellow Sweetheart roses and daisy pom poms.

Rick Clark attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen and ushers included Robert Brockett, Robert Kiehlhorn, Ed Hall, James Davenport Jr., Tom Arpa.

A reception was held in the church hall after the ceremony. The newly-married Mr. and Mrs. Clark are now residing in Sellersburg, Ind., a suburb of Louisville, Ky., following a wedding trip to Kings Island, Cincinnati, Ohio.

While residing here, the bride was employed at Granite City Trust and Savings Bank. She now is employed as a secretary in Louisville, Ky. Mr. Clark, a minister and student, is a graduate of Oakland City College, Oakland City, Ind., and will attend the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville.

MR. AND MRS. THOMPSON ENTERTAIN GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Al Barcus and children Kelly and Michael of Plano, Tex., departed Thursday for their home after a visit here with Mrs. Barcus parents, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm A. Thompson, 4170 Breckenridge Lane.

The out-of-town guests attended a show at the Mississippi River Festival featuring the Osmond Brothers, while vacationing here.

MR. AND MRS. RANDY CLARK. They were married at the First Baptist Church in Eldorado, Ill. The bride is the former Miss DeAnne Davenport, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Davenport Sr. of Eldorado.

Party fetes J. B. Gieszelmann

James B. Gieszelmann was honored at a bon voyage party last week, given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gieszelmann, at their home, 2525 Waterman Ave.

The guest of honor will leave on Wednesday for the University of St. Louis in Madrid, Spain, where he will begin his sophomore year.

A buffet dinner was served to guests, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Lawrence Mattingly, Mrs.

Margaret Waller, Mrs. Helen Miller, John and Chuck Barth, Tim Batterson, Mrs. Norma Darnell, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Goeller and daughters, Helen, Cynthia and Beth, Mrs. Linda Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wardford and children Dawn and Scott, Mrs. Charlie Vunovic, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Vaughn and children, Mavis, Michele and Michael.

Out-of-town guests included Major and Mrs. E. L. Gieszelmann and children Eric and Julie of Indianatic, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gieszelmann and daughter Diane of Troy, Mr. and Mrs. William Hawk of Hamel, Mark Martinez of St. Louis, Mrs. Mary Sedokum of Edwardsville and Miss Jane Wuller of St. Ann, Mo.

Mrs. Wilson hosts Mary Martha Class

Mrs. S. M. Wilson entertained members of the Mary Martha Sunday school class of the Third Baptist Church at a 9:30 brunch Thursday morning at her home, 12 Terrace Lane.

During the social event the hostess read a poem entitled, "Thankfulness."

Those present were Alma Garrard, Allie Smith, Lorena Shirley, Alpha Logan, Ruth Hopkins, Hazel Atchison, Florence Simpson, Laura Maples, Laura Grote, Ruby Allen, Blanche Edwards, Golda Riley, Anna Fossieck, Nancy Turner, Agnes Lindsay, Juanita Vizzer and Mary Wilson.

STEAL, BURN AUTO

Yvonne Romanic becomes Mrs. Neal L. Hickman

Miss Yvonne M. Romanic, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony W. Romanic, 1223 Edwardsville Road, Madison, became the bride of Neal L. Hickman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Hickman, 2409 St. Robert Lane, St. Charles, Mo., at a nuptial high mass on Aug. 9 at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Madison.

Father Conrad Motola officiated at the 11 o'clock morning ceremony before an altar decorated with bouquets of white mums interspersed with greenery. Large bows in hues to match the attire of the bride party marked the pews, and aisle candelabra held burning tapers in the same shades.

James Havernak presided at the organ as Mrs. Margaret MacZura sang, "The Wedding Song," "Panis Angelicus," "On This Day O'Beautiful Mother" and The Lord's Prayer.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was gown in a full-length dress fashioned of candlelight silk organza delicately appliqued with beaded Alencon lace.

Designed with an Empire bodice, the dress featured a high neckline fraced with pearls, crystals and lace which was repeated on the long tapered sleeves ending with ruffled flared cuffs.

The A-line skirt and Watteau train which fell softly from the high rise waistline was accented with jeweled motifs and bordered with a scalloped lace trim.

A camelot headpiece of beaded lace was attached to a cathedral-length veil of imported French bridal illusion and she carried a cascade of ivory cymbidium orchids entwined with greenery.

The bride's cousin, Miss Mary Felicia Lapinski, served as maid of honor with bridesmaids, Miss Donna Durham, Loretta Lapinski, another cousin of the bride and Mrs. Fred Luetkenhaus, a sister of the groom.

Full-length gowns in Tahitian chiffon fashioned in Grecian Empire silhouette style were worn by the attendants. The dresses were created with V-necklines, sheer chapel sleeves and gracefully flowing skirts.

They wore a small cluster of rose starflowers in their hair and carried parasols enhanced with peach caranations, yellow pom poms, rose starflowers and ivy.

Stephen Romanic, the bride's nephew, was the ringbearer and Shelly Hickman, a niece of the groom, served as flower girl. She wore a candlelight lace rock made with a full skirt scalloped at the hemline and short sleeves. She also wore small blossoms in her hair and held a basket of petals festooned with a small nosegay of yellow pom poms.

Douglas Hutchinson attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Robert Romanic, a brother of the bride, Terry McKenzie, a cousin of the bride and Harold Hickman Jr., the groom's brother.

Escorting the guests to their seats were Fred Luetkenhaus and Stanley Lapinski, a cousin of the bride.

Miss Betty Bucatch presided over the guest book at a reception held at the Polish Hall in Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Hickman, parents of the groom, hosted a rehearsal dinner at Three Flats in St. Charles, Mo.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Romanic selected a floor-length Nile green chiffon gown enhanced with a silver and gold beaded trim on the bodice and wore a pink cymbidium orchid corsage and silver accessories.

Mrs. Hickman, the groom's mother, was attired in a formal-length floral chiffon dress with white accessories and a green cymbidium orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of St. Theresa Academy, East St. Louis, and holds an associate degree in management and a BS degree in organizational behavior and marketing from Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville. She is now employed at Granite City Steel in the sales department.

A graduate of St. Charles, Mo. schools, the groom received a BS degree in marketing from Southeast Missouri State University, and currently is employed as a salesman for Bostitch Co., Inc. He also is a member of the St. Charles Rescue and Recovery Squad and is a special deputy sheriff in St. Charles (Mo.) County.

The newly-married couple now resides at 432 Canary Lane, St. Charles, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hewlett, 7121 Cottage Ave., are announcing the birth of their first child, a girl, on Aug. 15 at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The new arrival has been named Anne Marie and weighed eight pounds, two ounces. Mrs. Hewlett is the former Pat Parker, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Parker. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Gary Rainwater. All are of Granite City.

'MARRIED. Mr. and Mrs. Neal L. Hickman who exchanged wedding vows at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church. Formerly Miss Yvonne M. Romanic, the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony W. Romanic, 1223 Edwardsville Road, Madison.

Party fetes George Sturmons

Mr. and Mrs. George Sturmon, 2434 Edison Ave., were guests of honor at a surprise dinner dance in observance of their 40th wedding anniversary given at Augustine's Restaurant in Belleville by their sons and daughters-in-law.

Hosting the event was Mr. and Mrs. George R. Sturmon of Vicksburg, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sturmon and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sturmon, both of Park Forest, Ill.

Approximately 50 guests were present, including three grandchildren of the honorees.

Mr. Sturmon was employed by American Steel Foundries for 38 years and Mrs. Sturmon worked for American National Insurance for 23 years prior to their retirement a year and a half ago.

Shower honors Mrs. Yates

Mrs. Diana Yates was complimented at a stork shower given at the home of Mrs. Laura Hawkins, 22 Riviera Drive.

A crazy-quilt pattern was used in the table decorations with white vases of yellow rose buds. A large cake inscribed with a baby greeting centered the refreshment table.

Games were played with several prizes awarded.

Guests attending were Mesdames Terri Koelker, Danah Barnhart, Delores Lane, Loretta Marcus, Nadine Frith, Margaret Barnhart, Ann Hogan, Irene Barnhart, Becky Ship, Shirley Barnhart, Renda Reed, Louise Shelton, Eleanor Hobson, Sharon Yates, Betty Harper, Vicki Kraus, Wanda Bailey, Janie Cruse, Barbara Jackson, Carrie Durrell, Ollie Johnson and Misses Shirleen Barnhart, Denise Reed, Wendy Yates, Trisha and Cammie Cruse and Steve Kraus.

HERITAGE HIGHLIGHTS BICENTENNIAL SERIES

The Battle of New Orleans

Red Coat...Red Hair...Red Face...

□ The rawboned, red-headed boy of fourteen stood glaring with cold hatred at the red-coated British officer before him. On the side of his face was an angry welt from the broad edge of a saber...at his feet were the muddy military boots he had refused to clean and polish.

The year was 1781 in the Waxhaw Settlement of the Carolinas and the hot-tempered officer had no way of knowing that the blow he struck with his saber would come back, with interest, a quarter of a century later.

Hatred for the British stayed with the boy all the days of his life and, as he grew to manhood, his hostility was costly to Britain in many ways. But none more costly than the misty morning of January 8, 1815 when he stood and directed the murderous fire that resulted in one of Great Britain's worst military defeats. The Battle of New Orleans. The boy? Old Hickory...General Andrew Jackson.

While you're on vacation, someone else may be hard at work at your home.

Burglars do their best work when families are on vacation. They watch for tell-tale signs: a dark house, a pile of newspapers and handbills on the front porch, unmowed grass. Signs like these are an open invitation to both amateur and professional thieves.

So take the necessary steps to discourage them. Leave some lights on timers. Arrange for the lawn to be cut on schedule. Stop mail and newspaper delivery. Ask a neighbor to check your home daily. Tell the police how long you'll be gone.

And if your property is in a remote area or not adequately illuminated by street lights, you'd be wise to install a Nite Lite. This powerful outdoor floodlight turns on automatically at dusk and off at dawn. A flat monthly rental fee covers installation of the light of a pole, maintenance and all electricity the light uses. # Anchorage Club enrolls three

The Anchorage Senior Citizens Club enrolled three new members, Mrs. Alice Ralls, Mrs. Vivian Mitchell and Mrs. Evelyn Morgan, at a meeting last week, bringing the total membership to over 100 persons.

Mrs. Georgia Butler, president, presided at the meeting. A covered-dish luncheon was held in the Recreation Hall. The Rev. Leroy Filby gave the invocation.

Seventy-five members and four guests attended, including Mrs. Gertrude Leary, the housing project office secretary, and her two daughters, Mrs. Charlene Maxfield, secretary of social services department at St. Elizabeth Hospital, and Mrs. Wilma Finch, secretary to Sister Mary Thomas, the hospital president.

Other guests were Mrs. Helen Ann Harris, a daughter of the club president, and Miss Diane Lampe.

Mrs. Butler announced the Kirkpatrick Homes Golden Agers Club will meet at the Kirkpatrick Recreation Hall on Tuesday instead of at the Anchorage Hall.

In lieu of the regular meeting of the Anchorage Club on Sept. 3, members are invited to attend open house at the Senior Citizen Center, 1918 Edison Ave., to mark the first anniversary of the center opening.

A birthday arrangement provided by Willis Florals was won by Mrs. Butler who sent the gift to Mrs. Edna Harris, another member now at Colonial Haven Nursing Home.

Tickets available for Nashville trip

Three still is a limited number of reservations available for a three-day bus trip to Nashville, Tenn., and tickets for a show at the Grand Ole Opry on Sept. 6, according to Harold Brown, park superintendent.

Cost of the trip, arranged by the Park District for Sept. 5, 6 and 7, ranges from $34 to $49, depending upon the number of people in the party.

Brown said there is no waiting list but park district residents will be given priority. Reservations are to be made at the park district office, he added.

MISS STELZEN ANNOUNCES 1ST CHILD Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stelzen of Jefferson City, Mo., are announcing the birth of their first child, a girl, on Aug. 17.

Jennifer Lynne is the name selected for the new arrival who weighed seven pounds, one ounce.

The mother is the former Lynne Lovacheff, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lovacheff of Granite City. Paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stelzen, reside in Portland, Ore.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE ODUM JR. Their wedding took place at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Forrest, Ill. The bride is the former Ellen Mietzner, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mietzner of Forrest, Ill. The groom is formerly of Granite City.

Miss Ellen Mietzner wed in afternoon ceremony

An out-of-town wedding of interest here was that of Miss Ellen V. Mietzner, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Mietzner, 341 S. Center St., Forrest, Ill., and George E. Odum Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Odum Sr., 213 Concord Drive, Normal, Ill., formerly of Granite City, on Aug. 16 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Forrest, Ill.

The double-ring ceremony was performed at 3 p.m. by the Rev. Roger McAbbe in the presence of 200 guests and relatives.

Preceding the arrival of the wedding party, a program of musical selections was played by organist Mrs. Joyce Ommen, a cousin of the bride, and Sara Plumb, guitarist and soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown fashioned in a white jacquard satin-backed crepe, styled with a chapel train.

Elbow-length puff sleeves were set into an empire bodice designed with a mandarin stand-up collar.

A pearl-trimmed cap held in place her nylon illusion fingertip-length veil, and she held a cascade of white roses and baby's breath.

Miss Jan Phelps served as maid of honor and bridesmaids included Mollie Mills, Karen Mauback, Terri Starks and Mrs. Carol Lahners, the latter two cousins of the bride.

They were dressed in mint green jersey knit gowns designed similar to the bridal gown.

Each attendant wore rose and pink carnations in her hair and carried a nosegay of pink roses and miniature pink carnations.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL WILSON who were married in an evening ceremony at St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church in Collinsville. The bride is the former Kathleen Ganninger, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McTeer of Collinsville.

Kathleen Ganninger and Michael Wilson are wed

Miss Kathleen Ganninger, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew G. McTeer, 686 Portland, Collinsville, and Michael Eugene Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Wilson, 2332 Clark Ave., were united in marriage on June 21 at St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, Collinsville.

Father Michael Kuse, performed the 7 o'clock evening ceremony. Musicians Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bradshaw provided the nuptial selections including "Hallelujah," "Sunrise, Sunset," "For All We Know," "Never My Love," and "The Wedding Song."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long ivory gown designed in an Empire style and accented with ivory lace.

A lace and pearl headpiece secured her short veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of white roses and greenery.

Maid of honor Miss Debbie Chiappelli and bridesmaids, Mrs. Nancy Meris, Chas. Madson, Kathy Steffen, Dana Sappington and Patti Stocklausner, the latter a niece of the bride, wore identical tie blue gowns.

The full length dresses were complemented with long-sleeved jackets trimmed in ivory lace. Each attendant held a nosegay of white daisies.

The groom chose Doug Wilson, his brother, as best man. Kevin and Brian Wilson, also brothers of the groom, Dennis Kunneman, Tom Eaton, George Odum, Chuck Kraus, Steve Messman completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Approximately 400 guests attended a reception held at the Collinsville VFW Hall. Darla Hall and Sharon Stafford assisted.

The bride is attending Eastern Illinois University at Charleston where she is majoring in physical education. The groom is a graduate of EIU where he also was a member of Delta Zeta Fraternity. He is now teaching the fourth grade at St. Anne, Ill. school.

After a wedding trip the newlyweds are now residing at 181 S. Small St., Kankakee, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dudley to mark anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley "Duke" Dudley, 2204 Lynch Ave., will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Aug. 31, at the Moose Lodge in Wood River, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Lifelong residents of this area, Mr. Dudley and his wife, Bertha, were married on Sept. 4, 1915.

Mr. Dudley retired in 1957 after 33 years service at the Granite City Post Office. His wife was employed for 47 years at Leader's Department Store prior to her retirement two years ago.

They are members of St. John United Church of Christ, Mr. Dudley also belongs to the Wood River Moose Lodge, Masonic Lodge 877, Ainal Shrine, District 101 Legion of the Moose and is secretary of Musicians Local 717.

Mrs. Dudley is a member of the Chapter 263, Women of the Moose, in Wood River, and belongs to the College of Regents and is a past deputy grand regent of Illinois.

The couple have one daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Reed, 2005 Manley Ave. They also have three grandchildren, Mrs.

MR. AND MRS. WESLEY "DUKE" DUDLEY, 2204 Lynch Ave., who will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary at a reception on Sunday afternoon at the Moose Lodge in Wood River.

Woman driven to area, Mrs. Sanders assaulted by two men dies suddenly

A 33-year-old St. Louis woman told Madison County sheriff's deputies Thursday that two men had driven her from St. Louis to Layton Road near Bend Road where they beat and raped her. The woman said she met the two men while they were at a St. Louis tavern with a woman she knew. She agreed to ride to Illinois with them and her friend followed in another auto. She later noticed the other woman was not following them, she said. The victim said the three of them drove to the 700 block of Layton Road where they stopped. Both men forced her into the back seat, struck her several times and raped her, she said. Later, a third man approached and while the men were talking to him, she crawled out of the car and into a bean field where she hid, she said. She recalled the third man saying to the other two, "You promised me. Did you bring her?" She also recalled the third man saying as she crawled into the beanfield, "Stop or I'll shoot." She continued to hide while the car drove beside the beanfield three times, her assailants telling her they would drive her home, if she would come out. After they left, she went to a house and called deputies. The deputies said she suffered bruises to both arms and legs, a bruise to the side of her nose and scratches to her left cheek. She described the driver as being about 25 years-of-age, about 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighing about 160 pounds and having dark, medium-length hair. The passenger was 20 to 25 years of age, about the same size and weight as the driver and having long dark hair. She said she did not see the third man clearly.

Mrs. Mary J. Sanders, 42, 250 Bryan Ave., was taken from her home to St. Elizabeth Hospital where she was declared dead upon arrival at 6:30 a.m. Saturday. She had been in ill health 10 years and had been under a doctor's care. Mrs. Sanders was born in Missouri and resided here 40 years. Surviving are her husband, Jesse Sanders; three daughters, Mrs. Charles (Evelyn) Fuller, Mrs. Ruth Stemmer and Mrs. James (Henrietta) Graham, all of Granite City; two sons, Ralph and Charles Sanders of Granite City; a sister, Mrs. Mildred Fox of Alhambra, Calif.; a brother, Ervil Womak of St. Louis; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. Funeral arrangements may be found in today's obituary column.

Realtors conference at SIUE

A one-day conference for realtors is scheduled at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Sept. 10. The meeting will convene in the Meridian Ballroom of the University Center, with registration beginning at 8 a.m. The conference is sponsored by the Illinois Association of Realtors and the Southern Illinois Real Estate Conference. The realtors will be welcomed by Walt Schiemer, treasurer of the Illinois Association of Realtors, John M. Picken, president of the organization, and Joseph Kelleher, from the Southern Illinois Real Estate Conference. "Financing" will be discussed by Edward Reinagel at the local level, Thomas Dunck, at the state level, and Laurence H. Cleland, at the national level. A financing panel and question period will follow. Luncheon speakers will include James Winning, legal counsel for the Illinois Association of Realtors, and Robert E. Cook, executive vice-president of the organization. Topic of discussion will be "Government and the Realtor." During the afternoon session, John Grogan, of Marketing System For Today, will discuss "listing." Fee for the conference is $15, which includes all materials and lunch. Additional information may be obtained by contacting the Office of Conferences and Institutes, SIUE.

S. C. Dickerman ends training course

Army Private First Class Stephen C. Dickerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Dickerman, 4720 Warnock Ave., has completed nine weeks of advanced individual training at the U.S. Army Infantry Training Center, Fort Polk, La. He received general training as a light weapons infantryman and as a mortar and recoilless rifle crewman, in addition to specialized weapons instruction. He also was taught the proper use of high explosives and the placement, detection and disarming of mines. Teamwork was emphasized while he learned to work as a member of a rifle squad, mortar squad or direct fire section. Each team member completed the training well qualified to perform other jobs in case of casualties.

Calculator—friend or foe in the classroom?

The electronic calculator, once a large and expensive piece of office equipment, has shrunk both in size and price to the point where almost anyone—including the elementary school student—can afford one.

It was, therefore, just a matter of time before the pocket calculator appeared in Illinois classrooms—either carried in by the students or provided by the schools.

But, according to Illinois Office of Education mathematics specialist Dean Nichols, teachers are casting a wary eye toward these pocket-sized wonders.

"There's an uneasiness among teachers concerning whether to allow the calculators in the classroom and how much to allow or encourage their use," Nichols said.

Some teachers feel the pocket electronic calculator is the thing of the future and students should be allowed to use them in school.

"But," he added, "there are others who feel students have to learn the basic facts of math and should not be allowed to use the electronic calculator."

A survey in Western Springs School District 101 found that students' thought calculators would improve their attitudes towards math by removing much of the drudgery involved in working long problems. So the Western Springs district is trying to determine if calculators can be useful as teaching aids.

Under a Title III Elementary and Secondary Education Act grant, the district is initiating a program intended to discover whether or not these mini-calculators can improve computational skills and help students with mathematical concepts.

The plan, according to project director Kay Nebel, involves three groups of fifth and sixth grade students.

In the first group, each child will have a calculator and will be able to use it for all his math work. The second group will be provided with 10 calculators for the entire classroom, to be used only for checking their work.

The third group will have no access to calculators in the classroom.

Test will be given before the start of the program and again at the end of the school year to see how the three groups compare.

One math teacher who believes studies eventually will show that use of electronic calculators decreases the time it takes students to learn basic math skills is Edward Seggelke of Lombard Junior High School in Galesburg.

Seggelke's students have been using four table calculators presented to the school's math lab by the Lombard Parent-Teacher Association. These machines, Seggelke said, are used in his classes to speed up student skills in mathematical computations.

He considers the calculator an educational tool. "When a student is figuring complicated interest formulas, there is no sense in his grinding out 20 long math problems on paper. The idea is to see if he can apply the formula and get the answer," he said.

However, problems can arise, Seggelke warned, if the teacher does not supervise their use.

For example, he said, a student may figure a math problem incorrectly on his calculator and simply accept the answer as being correct. Students who use electronic calculators on the simple problems soon learn it is quicker to figure these in their heads, he added.

From Nichols' perspective, electronic calculators, if used correctly, can be helpful in motivating students.

He firmly believes, though, that students should be versed in the fundamental facts and in their application—and that the calculator should be carefully studied as a tool for accomplishing that objective.

"For instance, if a student figures a problem first on paper and then checks the answer with the calculator, the calculator could become a reinforcement tool for the student," he explained. "This could be one method for allowing the student to learn the basic fundamentals of math and to check the problem immediately after completing it."

Alderman complains of food billing system

An investigation into the methods used by most retail grocery outlets in computing food prices that involve cost reductions offered in advertising coupons has been requested of the Tri-City Area Chamber of Commerce by Alderman Everett Morlen of the First Ward.

The request was made with the concurrence of City Council members after Morlen told the council in a meeting last week that several stores he personally visited, and in which he made purchases, used a method of price tabulation that gives the stores a sales tax collection higher than that to which he believes they are entitled.

Morlen said he found in his visit to the stores that a general practice of tabulating the full retail price of coupon sale items, with the coupon price allowance deducted following application of the sales tax, is in use in most stores. This, he told council members, gives the stores more sales tax than they should be allowed.

Several aldermen commented that they had taken notice of such procedure and agreed the matter should be "looked into." The council suggested that Morlen present the matter to the Chamber of Commerce for possible action.

Alderman Morlen said he later discussed the issue with Edward Reiske, executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, and was assured it will be referred to the appropriate committees for action.

Morlen said the matter also may be referred to the Illinois State Revenue Department which administers the sales tax program. The alderman cited as one example of his complaint a purchase he made of a $1.99 item with a coupon offering a 40-cent reduction.

He said the item was registered at the retail price of $1.99 with the 10 cents in sales tax added, for a total of $2.09. The 44-cent coupon allowance then was applied for a purchase price of $1.65.

He contended the 44-cent reduction should have been applied to the full $1.99 price for a cost of $1.55. Sales tax on that cost would have been seven cents, making a purchase price of $1.62, or three cents less than by the other procedure.

"When that procedure is followed with a lot of items, the amount involved becomes substantial," Morlen said.

A TO Z CLUB MEETS AT MANG RESIDENCE

A monthly meeting of the A to Z Pinocchio Club was held last week in the home of Mrs. Mary Mang, 2630 Edison Ave., followed by a dessert luncheon. Those who excelled in the games and won prizes were Mesdames Helen Love, Emily Mejaski, Evelyn Ferro, Clara Winter and the hostess.

Also present was Mesdames Ruth Kinder, Helen Krakowicki, Lucille Broyles, Barbara Stout and Mrs. Bauer. Mrs. Stout will host the September meeting.

Student responsibilities and rights handbook is expanded

An expanded second edition of the student rights and responsibilities booklet has been published by the Illinois Office of Education.

State Supt. Joseph M. Cronin reports that the colorful handbook presents a smorgasbord of information on student interests and concerns.

It is designed to be used by adults — including teachers, counselors, administrators and school boards — as well as by students.

New laws and court decisions are discussed concerning access to student records, procedures for suspension and expulsion, prohibitions against sex discrimination in educational programs, and requirements for special education placement and services.

The state school chief said more detailed information is provided on topics found in the first edition, including corporal punishment, dress and grooming, student publications, and speech and expression.

In addition, he said, new chapters deal with new or timely issues, such as attendance requirements, grievance procedures and freedom of association.

Dr. Cronin noted that although much of the information provided is based on recent court decisions, the booklet does not claim to offer legal advice.

Proclaims GC Hunting-Fishing Day

A proclamation setting Sept. 27 as Granite City Hunting and Fishing Day has been signed by Mayor Paul Schuler who urged all citizens to "Join with sportsmen-conservationists in a dedication to the wise use of our natural resources and their proper management for the benefit of future generations."

The proclamation urged all citizens to take part in hunting and fishing activities on Sept. 27 "to learn more about conservation and outdoor skills."

Mayor Schuler's proclamation said: "Because of the outstanding contributions that America's hunters and fishermen have made to conservation, recreation and the economy, they are deserving of special recognition."

"Since the turn of the century, hunters and anglers have been the leaders in nearly all major conservation programs. These sportsmen-conservationists are responsible for the founding of state fish and game departments in all 50 states."

"They asked that they, themselves, be required to buy licenses and that the money collected be used to support state conservation agencies. In the last 50 years alone, these sportsmen have provided $2.5 billion for conservation programs."

"Hunters and fishermen asked for the establishment of regulated seasons and bag limits so that sportsmen could harvest the annual crop of game and fish without damage to the basic breeding population. The result has been that there are now more deer, elk, antelope and wild turkey in the United States than there were 50 years ago. Further, sportsmen's programs have benefited numerous species of non-game fish and wildlife through habitat development."

"Hunters and fishermen, unique in all America, asked that their fishing and hunting equipment be taxed and that the money be used for land acquisition, research and habitat management for fish and wildlife for the enjoyment of all Americans."

"Through their publications and organizations — such as the National Wildlife Federation, Ducks Unlimited, Isaac Walton League of America and others — hunters and fishermen have led the nation in the battle for a better environment and the wise use of our natural resources."

Horseshoe Lake hunting ban

The Illinois Department of Conservation announced last week that all types of hunting will be prohibited on Horseshoe Lake at Granite City this year, except on privately-owned lands with permission of the owner.

The lands presently owned and being purchased by the Department of Conservation for a state park are interspersed with privately-owned lands and persons hunting could be unknowingly guilty of trespass.

Therefore, unless hunters are sure they are on private lands and have the owner's permission, all hunting on and around the lake will be illegal.

The use of state-owned portions of the lake and property for boating or fishing also will be prohibited until the entire unit has been purchased.

Tenth-trillion tons of coal in Illinois

Enormous reserves of coal and water in Illinois have been mapped and described in a two-part report prepared jointly by the Illinois State Geological Survey and the Illinois State Water Survey, it was announced Friday.

The report is based on new, comprehensive studies of all data in the files of both organizations.

According to this study, Illinois has under its rich prairie soils the largest reserve of bituminous coal of any state in the nation.

Detailed study of the No. 6 and No. 5 coals, the state's two most important coal seams, has indicated nearly 100 billion tons remaining in the ground in thicknesses ranging from 42 inches to more than 10 feet.

The report, titled "Coal and Water Resources for Coal Conversion in Illinois," emphasizes the availability of Illinois coal and water resources as a guide for siting plants for the manufacture of synthetic liquid fuels or gas from coal to help meet the nation's growing shortfall in supplies of these resources.

Abundant sources of water that could be supplied to meet the demands of synthetic fuels from coal plants are indicated, including all sources that could deliver a minimum of six million gallons per day.

Detailed information on rivers, reservoirs, potential reservoirs and groundwater sources that could supply at least this minimum are described in Part 2 of the report.

Three multicolor wall-sized maps accompany the report — one for each of the coal seams and one map showing water resources.

Results of the study are said to indicate that Illinois, with abundant resources of both coal and water — and many other conditions favorable to siting of coal conversion plants — could provide "excellent sites for a number of such plants."

Copies of the report, Cooperative Report No. 1, are available free of charge from either the Illinois State Geological Survey, Natural Resources, Urbana, Ill. 61801 or the Illinois State Water Survey, Box 232, Urbana, Ill. 61801.

The surveys are divisions of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education.

Statewide bicentennial conference

In anticipation of widespread U.S. Bicentennial activity during 1976, the Illinois Bicentennial Commission will sponsor a one-day state-wide conference in Springfield on Sept. 4.

Howard R. Fricke, chairman of the commission, reports that Governor Daniel Walker will be the keynote speaker at the day-long event.

"The conference," said Fricke, "is being sponsored by the commission to maintain the best possible communications between the state commission and local bicentennial commissions throughout Illinois."

The state meeting, which will be held at Holiday Inn East, Springfield, will feature presentations on historic preservation, activities of the state commission, administration, fund raising, ideas, grants and ideas for the promotion of local-level bicentennial events.

One of the more unique features of the conference will be a bicentennial program fair where participants will have the opportunity to learn more about statewide and national programs in an informal and more personal setting.

"The idea behind the fair," said Fricke, "is to give people a chance to obtain information on programs on a one-to-one basis."

During the fair, which will be presented in the afternoon of the conference, booths and displays will be staffed by personnel of organizations sponsoring statewide and national bicentennial programs.

Among participants in the program fair will be representatives of Town Meeting '76, Bicentennial, LaSalle Expedition II, Bicentennial Wagon, Train Pilgrimage, booths of Illinois bicentennial products, performing arts, historic preservation and Illinois architecture bicentennial touring exhibits.

Other conference activities will include films and a workshop on the American Issues Forum as well as special bicentennial entertainment.

Information and registration forms are available by contacting Illinois Bicentennial Commission offices in Springfield, Marion or East Peoria or by writing the main office at 410 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Snow, Petersen win Gateway Nationals

What many of the spectators were hoping to see this weekend — a funny car final pitting Gene "The Snowman" Snow and Raymond Beedle in the "Blue Max" — was not to be Sunday at St. Louis International Raceway as a faulty #1 part in a starter motor kept the Blue Max from firing in the semi-final round and set Snow up for the eventual win.

The competition was among three days of action at the local drag racing facility during the annual Gateway Nationals of Drag Racing, billed as the largest drag racing event each year in the Midwest.

This year's race, however, found itself in conflict with several other national drag races around the country and the supply of well-known drivers was divided about four ways.

While several hundred cars did participate in this year's event, the shortage was obvious and Saturday night's trophy eliminations and professional qualifying billed from 8 to 11 p.m., actually ended about 9:45 p.m. when there were no more cars wishing to run.

Sunday's competition was quite the opposite as all of the professional cars tuned their engines for maximum performance and the crowd of about 6,000 was entertained by literally hundreds of side-by-side competition runs, some with speeds exceeding 205 miles-per-hour.

The crowd Saturday and Sunday made their funny car favorites known, cheering loudly for Snow and the Blue Max and wishing both cars would survive to the finals.

Two weeks earlier the two cars were pitted in the finals of another International Hot Rod Association Winston Challenge Series race and Snow's car became crossed up, the front bumper taking a chunk out of the Blue Max.

The car was quickly repaired, however, and showed few signs of damage as Beedle pitted to victory after victory on his way toward the final.

The end for the Blue Max came in the semi-final round as the Mustang and the "Hawaiian" Monza of Norm Wilcox lined up side-by-side to be started.

The Hawaiian car finished a long "burn-out" to the applause of the crowd which quickly became silent as the Blue Max failed to follow suit.

Attention turned toward the Blue Max crew, working frantically to get the car's engine started, but moments later, track officials gave the command for the Hawaiian to come to the starting line.

A solo run advanced Wilcox as the Blue Max was pushed away.

Showing true sportsmanship, the Blue Max crew borrowed a starting motor from another crew and entertained the crowd with one solo run, even though there was no chance of earning any of the funny car prize money.

Snow easily advanced through his side of the funny car bracket after rebuilding his nitro-methane blown and injected engine in the pit area prior to the semi-final round.

The final pitted Snow against the Hawaiian and Snow, of Ft. Worth, Tex., needed only a run of 6.74 seconds to win the crown.

Herm Petersen of Paulsboro, Wash., on the comeback trail since being critically injured in a flip in his top fuel dragster in July of 1973, topped Jack Revelle of Florissant, Mo., to win the AA fuel dragster competition. Petersen needed a quick 6.295 to win, crossing the finish line at 205.5 miles-per-hour.

2 brother duos on roster of GC South cross-country team

Warrior harriers of Granite City High School South are preparing to open their fall cross-country season on Sept. 2 in a 10-school meet at Alton, and Coach Richard Harmon sees "a lot of hard work ahead of us."

"We lost five of our top runners from last year through graduation," says Harmon, "and not many prospects have turned out for pre-season practice."

The harriers who have graduated from Granite City since last season are Dwayne Terry, Sam Nesbitt, Greg Ahlers, Dave Brown and Jim Hall.

"We have been working out twice a day with the runners we have," he added, "concentrating on distance footwork, hill running and sprints."

"Thus far, several of the athletes are looking good, mainly because they have kept in shape by working out on their own during the off-season."

South's cross-country turnout includes two brother combinations in Senior Russ Presswood and Junior Randy Presswood, and Senior Dwayne Meagher and Sophomore Ken Meagher.

Randy Presswood and Don Meagher were among those who helped the Warriors to a third-place finish last year in the season-opening meet on the hilly, three-mile Alton course.

Randy Presswood completed the run in a time of 17:34 and Don Meagher in a time of 17:50.

Ken Meagher, at last year's Southwestern Conference three-mile meet at Alton finished 10th in 17:38 to lead the sophomore team to fourth place. And in a junior varsity meet at Collinsville, he set a new school record for freshmen runners with a time of 16:22 over a 2.83 mile course.

Harmon also notes that six other runners have shown promise of being key harriers this fall in dual meets—Senior Frank Holmes, Sophomore Jim Dumont and Juniors Frank Laub, Garth Widel, Glen Ahlers and Mike Cothern.

"I will probably show up in our time trials who will be the most successful this fall."

"We'll run on a 2.85-mile course at Wilson Park and we consider between 14 and 15 minutes a good time. But the average will more than likely be a little over 15 minutes," he added.

GCSS South's schedule following the Alton meet is: Sept. 4 GCSS North here; Sept. 6 GCSS North here; Sept. 8 at O'Fallon.

Sept. 9 Edwardsville here; Sept. 10 at St. Paul (Highland) invitational; Sept. 13 at Belleville West invitational; Sept. 15 at Collinsville; Sept. 19 Quigley South here.

Sept. 20 at Edwardsville invitational; Sept. 23 Cahokia here; Sept. 30 at Alton; Oct. 8 Belleville East here; Oct. 13 O'Fallon and Assumption here; and Oct. 18 at district meet.

Last year, Dwayne Terry, who snapped several school records, was the only Warrior to survive district and sectional competition and earn a berth in the state finals. He placed 33rd at state with a time of 15 minutes and 22 seconds over Peoria's three-mile course.

Flag football to organize tonight

Implementation of new rules, schedules, key dates and fees for the Granite City Park District's flag football program, which will begin Sept. 13, will be discussed tonight.

An organizational meeting is set for the Nameki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin Avenues, at 7:30 tonight. Applications from persons wishing to coach flag football teams also will be accepted at the meeting.

Mushill, bat head for SIUE

Paul A. Mushill, a GCHS South graduate and son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mushill of Granite City, has enrolled to attend Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville this fall and major in engineering.

He also will attempt to earn a starting position on the Cougar baseball team next spring.

As a baseball Warrior this year, Mushill collected 16 hits in 57 games at bat and scored 10 runs, including one homer, for South High.

He was credited with six runs batted in and eight stolen bases and ended his senior year with a .281 batting average.

This summer, Mushill played with Post 113 in the District 22 American Legion League, garnering 32 hits in 89 trips to the plate and scoring 23 runs for the Legion.

Of his 32 hits, eight were triples, four were doubles and two were home runs.

He boosted his 1975 batting average to .350 as a Legionnaire and will be eligible to compete again next year in American Legion competition.

Double-O race won by Wallace

Granite City's Larry Yates nearly pulled an upset out of the bag Saturday after leading the sportsman stock car "double-O" feature race for four laps at Tri-City Speedway before a yellow caution flag enabled second-place runner Mike Wallace, of Arnold, Mo., to close the gap on the restart and go on to take the checkered flag — Wallace's sixth feature event win of the season.

The caution flag was displayed when a trunk lid from the auto of Les Gibson, Granite City, fell onto the track between the first and second corners of the half-mile dirt oval.

In the "double-O" race, cars alternated for 10 laps between the large track and the adjoining smaller, quarter-mile oval.

After the track was cleared, Wallace slipped past Yates for the lead and held off strong challenges by the Granite Cityan all the way to the checkers. Yates finished second, Don Aerne third, and Rod Bailey and Gibson, both of Granite City, place fourth and fifth, in that order.

Mike Wallace also was victorious in a heat race, and Kris Krohn of St. Louis won the second heat race.

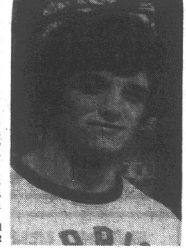

The sportsman main event was marred by an accident during the yellow-flag lap, when Granite Cityan Steven Kraus, 4020 Melrose Ave., was injured when his car struck the front-straightaway retaining wall.

Baseball gear to seventh graders

Baseball playing equipment will be issued to prospective seventh grade players at each Granite City junior high school — Coolidge, Grigsby and Prather — tomorrow, with issuance times to be announced tomorrow morning on each school's public address system.

Physical examination certificates and parent permission forms may be obtained from the main office of each junior high until 4:30 p.m. today, and must be returned when equipment is received tomorrow.

GRILLED LIVER DINNER EVERY DAY AT GRANT'S — $1.55

PAUL MUSHILL

BAND PARENTS

The Granite City High School North Band Parents Association will meet in the school library at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 2. Harold Steier, president, urged all members to be present.

Highland leads league

Granite City's Mercer baseball squad sat idle yesterday while other participating teams of the Illinois Inter-City League took to area diamonds.

Mercer, with a 12-15 record, was to have played Troy yesterday, but the opponent dropped from the league earlier this month for forfeiting more than two games this season.

Last week, the East Alton Vans defeated Fairfax 14-8, and then split a twinbill yesterday with Panama, 3-6 and 3-2. Panama won the first contest on Phil Hand's three-run first-inning homer.

Fairfax yesterday rallied behind Terry Saylor's three-run homer in the eighth to down league-leading Highland-Pierson, 7-5.

Inter-City League standings, as of today, are: Highland 18-10, Panama 15-11, Vans 16-12, Fairfax 14-13, Mercer 12-15, and Troy 8-22.

Cheerleader meeting tomorrow

The Granite City Little Rascal Football Club will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow for all returning and new cheerleaders, at the Nameki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin Avenues.

Wilma Bowen, cheerleader director, asks adults who are interested in helping supervise the cheerleaders to attend the meeting. The girls will perform at home and away games this year during the Tri-County Junior Football League season, schedule for each of the Granite City club's four divisions — Pee Wee, Junior Pee Wee, and two Majors.

Gold medals to GC youth

Joe Russell, Granite City, won two swimming gold medals in an International Special Olympics at Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

He received medals for the 25-yard freestyle swim, and the senior division 100-yard freestyle relay swim. Russell also was awarded a ribbon for placing fourth in the 50 yard freestyle swim.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell of Granite City, Joe won gold medals for swimming in regional competition in Belleville and at the state meet held in Chicago.

At the International event held at Central Michigan University, Joe was one of 3,000 participants, representing 50 states and 10 countries, including Canada, Belgium and France.

The fourth International competition had events such as track and field, gymnastics, basketball, volleyball, swimming and wheelchair events. The games will be televised on the "CBS Sports Spectacular" on Sat., Sept. 13, at 3:30 p.m.

The purpose of the Special Olympics is to provide an opportunity for handicapped persons to compete in athletic contests. It was established in 1968 and is sponsored by the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation.

Stallings PTA opens season

Executive board members of Stallings School PTA met Thursday night in the home of the PTA president, Mrs. Ruth Jorgensen, to discuss future programs and projects for the forthcoming school year.

The president led a discussion of plans for the initial meeting which is set for 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 18. Plans were completed to have Ellis Herring of Herring Flowers and Gifts, Inc., as guest speaker. He will present a demonstration on flower arranging.

Medical Assistants plan family picnic

The St. Clair County Chapter of the American Association of Medical Assistants, Illinois Society, with members from the Quad-City area, will host its annual family picnic at 6 p.m. Thursday at the "Y" Park, Belleville, according to Malinda Grimming, chapter president.

Mrs. Grimming said each family is to bring its own food. The president also announced the chapter's annual "bosses night" event set for Sept. 19 at Dohack's Restaurant, Fairview Heights, at 7:30 p.m. Reservations must be made in advance, she added.

The top award will be presented to an area physician and a service award also will be given to one of the members for outstanding work in the organization.

Former residents now in Missouri

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Watkins and children Lance and Anne, formerly of Granite City, who have been residing in Seneca, Kan., are moving to 505 Beau Circle, Blue Springs, Mo., according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Dorothy Watkins of Granite City.

Mr. Watkins is employed for AT&T Co. and has been transferred to the sales division in the Kansas City, Mo., office.

STRUCK BY AUTO
John Winters, 27, of 1332 Fifth St., Madison, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital Saturday at 1:15 p.m. for observation. He was struck by an auto in St. Louis, lost consciousness, was taken to St. Louis City hospital and then transferred here.

Illinois architecture influenced by prairie

Plato decreed that form follows function, and wrote in the Republic that "The excellence or beauty or truth of every structure, animate and inanimate, and every action of man, is relative to the use for which nature or the artist has intended them."

In conscious response to that dictum a series of artists-builders created an architectural expression, imaginative and original, of the urban power and rural peace of Illinois. No history of world architecture could be complete without such names as William LeBaron Jenney, Louis Sullivan, Daniel Burnham, John Root, and Frank Lloyd Wright. These men captured the spirit and the need of Chicago following the great conflagration in 1871, rebuilding it along principles which expressed democratic hope and commercial power.

In the words of one observer, "The simple force of need is such a principle of beauty, and these buildings so conspicuously manifest that need, that in contemplating them you experience a singular emotion." And that need led to the great skyscrapers, many-storied buildings of structural steel and glass, constructed according to engineering principles which Jenney and his Chicago-based associates discovered and applied in the waning years of the 19th century.

Burnham and Root designed the grand Monadnock Building, 16 stories of masonry construction rising from a foundation six feet thick at street level with each subsequent wall slightly inset to form its stylish silhouette. Under the general supervision of Burnham a "great white city" was created along Lake Michigan to house the Columbian Exposition in 1893, and it alerted the senses of the nation to the possibilities of transforming ugliness to beauty. Other colleagues and creators of what became the "Chicago School" of architecture built theaters, libraries, and hotels throughout the burgeoning city.

In response to the great commercial patrons of the day, to the necessity to house and to office great numbers of people in a small space, and to their own sense of beauty, these men produced an architecture uniquely suitable to Chicago. Skeleton frame construction which made buildings of more than 10 stories economically feasible was perfected by Jenney in the Home Life Insurance building between 1883 and 1885. Within a few years, full skeleton construction with cast-iron columns replacing all exterior piers of masonry appeared. By 1892, cast iron was replaced by steel. The vertical thrust of the buildings gave a sense of power, a sense of a new way of life, a modern urban community based on money and technology.

But for some the spirit of form could be horizontal, the prairie line, which deeply moved so many of them. Wright expressed the artist-architect's commitment to the prairie when he said, "I love the prairie by instinct as, itself, a great simplicity; the trees, the flowers, and the sky were thrilling by contrast, the plain... serene beneath a wonderful sweep of sky." He became the foremost American innovator, an explorer of an organic architecture based on the integration of form, function, building site, and material.

als, and on the subordination of style to human needs.

Wright began to apply these ideas at the opening of the 20th century, in such early prairie-style buildings as the Isabel Roberts house at River Forest; the Coonly house at Riverside; the famous Robie house on Chicago's Woodland Avenue; as well as in the first Taliesin house at Spring Green, Wis., where he worked and taught. Indeed, the existence of a Frank Lloyd Wright house within its boundaries is noted with pride by cities and towns throughout the Midwest.

Wright's work spanned two generations, pulling together the turn-of-the-century world, of Louis Sullivan, his teacher, and the modern era of Mies van der Rohe, uniting the best of two generations and giving Illinois its justifiable position in the architectural history of the world.

Citizen involvement in community decisions helps all

Citizen action was what won "All-American city" honors for Granite City nearly two decades ago, when that commodity apparently was in scarce supply in some American municipalities.

Now, in the final half of the 1970s, citizen involvement has moved from being a luxury to a necessity. Fortunately, it is much in evidence in the Quad-Cities, as illustrated by last week's Chamber of Commerce accountability meeting, in which committees reported to the members.

A wide range of concerns has been dealt with on an organized, persistent basis by Chamber committees and by many other local organizations and individuals.

As was brought out at the accountability session, the high degree to which all levels of government control or alter business activity—and the proliferation of all-powerful "home rule" communities and counties in Illinois require regular and detailed input from firms, groups and citizens. It has become a must, regardless of how hard it may be for them to find time to devote to the task.

A silver lining in the darkening cloud of governmental growth is the fact that public involvement not only is unavoidable but also is proving to be beneficial in many ways. The decisions and policies that result are, nearly always, sounder if residents and taxpayers have had a voice in them.

As an example, long-discussed hillside and interior stormwater drainage needs have become so cumbersome and costly that, last week's gathering was told, there may be no solution here within the life spans of any of those who were present. But, thanks to the efforts of the Sewers and Drainage Committee and others, smaller and more affordable partial remedies are now expected to receive emphasis, speeding their accomplishment.

Another instance is the huge cost and inconvenience resulting from underground breaks in Granite City sanitary sewers. For awhile it seemed that the scope was so overwhelmingly that no feasible course could be devised. But with the help and advice of the Community Resources Commission, the city is embarking on achievable segments that offer permanent solutions for some of the problems.

Each year, each month, it is becoming more apparent that, in a democracy, there truly is no substitute for caring, active citizens.

Retiring judge expanded facilities, speeded services

Comment by Wood River Journal—Chief Circuit Judge Fred Schuman's decision to retire from the bench of our Third Judicial Circuit Sept. 1 might be likened to that of a ballplayer who just finished a season with a .400 batting average.

His three terms as chief judge were unprecedented, and in the time he had accomplished much to improve methods of the court.

Persuading the County Board to establish an extra courtroom across the street from the Courthouse provided conveniences for jurors and privacy for the grand jury. Schuman had departmentalized the setting of cases, assigning criminal actions to one section, civil ones to another, juveniles to a third. Under this system, the long-delayed dockets were diminished.

Observers admired his energy, seeing always to be moving briskly but never in an unorganized hurry. He has a keen legal mind with a facility for getting at the heart of a matter.

As a judge, he did not duck the thorny cases. He knew that the "way of the transgressor is hard," but saw to it that the transgressors received their legal rights—even though this would involve the ill-will of the righteous or the powerful who wanted them ignored.

His experience with the legal profession has been many-faceted, serving as Granite City judge, state's attorney, counsel for municipalities, local levee districts and the Illinois Court of Claims before settling down on the circuit bench.

His experience with recent years by impairment of voice, the lawyer's most cherished asset, he persevered when a lesser talent would have quit in discouragement, and rose to greater stature in the more demanding post of chief judge. It has been a long career of public service and he has earned the respect that retirement affords, if anyone has.

Interstate highway fund threatened by diversion

By KEITH CECIL

Executive Vice-President of the Illinois Trucking Association. Just two years ago, when Congress was about to divert money from the Highway Trust Fund to mass transit for the first time, a member of the U.S. House of Representatives stood up and declared, "We ought not to break faith with the taxpayers in order to let this kind of diversion take place."

Ah, how times and politicians change. In case recent events have dimmed your memory and you don't remember who said that, it was none other than Gerald R. Ford, the congressman from the state of Michigan.

He was, of course, unaware at that time that history was going to tap him on the shoulder—not once, but twice—and he was going to move up in the world, in a hurry. What makes that two-year-old speech so ironic is that it was the same Gerald R. Ford, now President of the United States, who recently sent to Congress proposed legislation that would provide sweeping changes in the way highways are financed.

The Highway Trust Fund that President Ford plans to restructure is currently financed by the four cents a gallon federal excise tax on gasoline and by the highway users' taxes on diesel fuel, tires and auto and truck parts.

Under the President's proposed legislation, the revenues from only one cent of the gasoline tax—which would add up to $1 million a year at current rates—would go into the fund beginning Oct. 1, 1976.

According to the President's Administration, these receipts, along with the other highway user taxes, would be enough to finish the Interstate Highway System in the 1980s and to maintain it thereafter.

As of now, there are nearly 6,000 miles remaining to be built of the 42,500-mile projects and the total cost of the system could top $100 billion.

The President wants two cents of the tax to go to the Treasury, where it could be used for other state and local highway programs until 1980, but after that, it could be used for mass transit or almost anything else.

The President also proposed that the U.S. stop paying the remaining one cent of the tax in the states that increase their own gas tax by the same amount; the money would give the states more control over their spending.

There would be no requirement that the states use the money for highways or any transportation purposes.

President Ford has come out on top in many of his confrontations with Congress so far, but this time, it could be different. The political parties have already attacked the plan.

Carlton Robinson of the Highway Users Federation has said, "If this passes, the Interstate System won't be finished in this century."

As of now, the odds appear to be stacked against the President's legislation, but his aides are convinced that the plan has a chance, if not this year, then next.

To emphasize just how much of a battle the administration is expecting over the legislation, one official is quoted as saying, "It will be blood, sweat and tears as we fight this."

Ford's plan means he has changed his thinking entirely.

As a congressman, he was a consistent supporter of the Interstate Highway System. Now he is in favor of diversion. He will find he is opposed by many congressmen, the trucking industry, American Automobile Associations—how's that for unusual reemphasize—auto manufacturers, petroleum companies, tire companies, other highway users and the highway construction industry.

NEW YORK — "Turn off the machines."

So a distraught father decreed recently to halt efforts to keep his injured son alive by mechanical means.

The child's brain waves had been flat for several days, and doctors were keeping his heart and other vital organs in action.

The difficult decision reached by the parents, who concluded they would rather have their child dead than a vegetable, is one that is confronting people more and more frequently. It has set off a debate among theologians, doctors and others on the moral and ethical values in life.

Legislation has been introduced in a number of states that would enable patients, relatives and/or doctors to decide when to let a mortally ill or injured person die. So far little progress has been made.

"Death with dignity" is called by some. Euthanasia is the term used by others. Some people advocate mere withdrawal of medical support for life, while others propose that steps be taken to shorten misery.

The Euthanasia Educational Council is distributing a document entitled "Right to Die," defining what a person can do to provide for death

Why low image for Congress?

By JOHN FINKERMAN

A recent Gallup poll showed that the American public had a higher regard for used car dealers than for Congress.

Why? Perhaps the public is more aware of Congress' record of achievement than the politicians believe. Achievement in behalf of the public in the 94th Congress has been dismal. Achievement in behalf of congressmen's and senators' personal financial gain has been substantial.

Now Congress is on another month's vacation — until after Labor Day. During the last vacation, nearly two weeks in May and June — over 50 members used taxpayer money for foreign junkets, complete with families.

The count isn't in on the 1975 Budget Deficit. But it is the record of achievement that we are more interested in. Congress failed to do much for the nation's urgent energy needs despite several compromise efforts by President Ford. It failed to do much about many other pressing needs that beset Mr. Ford — and the American people — and such inaction brings it close to the record of the 80th Congress, labeled properly by President Truman as the "Do Nothing 80th Congress."

Worst of all, however, is the sad record of the 94th House's last day of action before its month off. Renewed arms sales to Turkey had just been passed by the Senate, at President Ford's request. A resolution of this question was vital insofar as the integrity of the southern flank of North Atlantic Treaty Organization posture was concerned.

Without taking a partisan position on whether the House should have defied the wealthy and powerful Greek lobby that had maneuvered an earlier House vote not to let the sale of arms to Turkey, any observer might question how the members of the House could have behaved.

Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., chairman of the Rules Committee, simply refused to permit the Turkey arms sales question to be considered by the full House. Under the system that gives members of the House unlimited powers this man was able to thwart action, whatever that action might have been, on a matter of critical concern to the nation's immediate future in a sensitive area of the world.

But, the Congress surely must have completed action on some items of importance. Yes, it did vote itself a 5 percent pay raise — and partially hid this action by adding members of Congress to a bill providing for a pay raise for judges and other federal executives.

It also tried to hide this action further, with a vote of 214 to 213, indicating many members were opposed. However, the vote really wasn't that close. The more genuine test was a 302 to 124 vote on a procedural matter in connection with the raise. Thus, nearly 100 of those registering opposition in the final tally really were in favor of the raise but were making it appear they opposed more money while getting it anyway.

Earlier in the session the House added another $10 million to your taxes by voting its members 64 free trips home instead of the 42 previous law had provided for.

Another cute little move was a salary increase that didn't appear to be a salary increase. This was maneuvered through the skill of Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Administration Committee. This one act signaled the first major change in construction of the House of Representatives since the passage of the Civil War.

Cpt. Eads' engineering ingenuity did not stop or start with the ironclads. He is also noted for patenting, at the age of 22, a diving bell which he used to salvage cargoes of sunken Mississippi River steamboats.

In 1874, Eads completed the steel and masonry Eads Bridge across the Mississippi River at

The ironclad ship sails!

Several thousand years of ship designs and materials were made completely obsolete by the ingenuity and courage of one man who refused to believe that a ship of iron would sink.

In 1861, James B. Eads erected the first steam-driven ironclad vessel in the United States and changed the course of water transportation.

Wooden ships propelled by sails had been around for thousands of years when this 41-year-old engineer had a new idea which could mean better standards for future bridges used throughout the world. The development of his steam-powered ironclad vessel, Eads became a responsibility for changing the entire history and efficiency of ships.

The first ironclad vessel was launched Oct. 12, 1861, at St. Louis by the United States Navy. This one act signaled the first major change in construction of the U.S. Naval ships and influenced the course of the Civil War.

Cpt. Eads' engineering ingenuity did not stop or start with the ironclads. He is also noted for patenting, at the age of 22, a diving bell which he used to salvage cargoes of sunken Mississippi River steamboats. In 1874, Eads completed the steel and masonry Eads Bridge across the Mississippi River at

Lowest house price needed

Q. I have heard that I cannot claim the housing credit. Is that true?

A. Yes, you can. The credit is available to anyone who has a mortgage on the property. Please explain. — M. B., Bridgeport, Conn.

A. You are correct. Unless you build your own house, you must attach to your return a certification by the seller that the purchase price is the lowest price at which the residence was ever offered for sale.

Q. I have not received my refund check. We moved after our tax return was filed. How can I find out what happened to the check?

A. Taxpayers who have moved should file with the Internal Revenue Service, a form 3911, Taxpayer Statement Regarding Referral, requesting a change of address form may have their rebate checks returned to the disbursing center marked "undeliverable."

Any taxpayer who now has a different address from that listed on his or her 1974 income tax return should file with the Internal Revenue Service, a form 3911, Taxpayer Statement Regarding Referral, requesting a change of address over the taxpayer's signature.

'Death with dignity' debate continuing

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK — "Turn off the machines."

So a distraught father decreed recently to halt efforts to keep his injured son alive by mechanical means.

The child's brain waves had been flat for several days, and doctors were keeping his heart and other vital organs in action.

The difficult decision reached by the parents, who concluded they would rather have their child dead than a vegetable, is one that is confronting people more and more frequently. It has set off a debate among theologians, doctors and others on the moral and ethical values in life.

Legislation has been introduced in a number of states that would enable patients, relatives and/or doctors to decide when to let a mortally ill or injured person die. So far little progress has been made.

"Death with dignity" is called by some. Euthanasia is the term used by others. Some people advocate mere withdrawal of medical support for life, while others propose that steps be taken to shorten misery.

The Euthanasia Educational Council is distributing a document entitled "Right to Die," defining what a person can do to provide for death with dignity. One measure is that doctors be required to prepare a "living will" asking that doctors take the responsibility for terminating life in a hopeless illness.

The Task Force on Ethical Issues in Human Medicine of the American Lutheran Church, which includes doctors, nurses, professors, hospital administrators, chaplains, theologians and parish pastors, has recognized that the church is going to be under increasing pressure to sanction some form of euthanasia.

It noted in a statement that "the life sciences and the various medical disciplines seem to have outrun theology, Christian ethics and traditional parish wisdom, while at the same time ethical problems surrounding the dying have been heightened."

The task force also raised the question of who should get medical care, asking: "Should huge sums be spent on treatment such as kidney dialysis or organ transplants, which benefit relatively few, or be used to provide basic health care for more people?"

The debate goes on, in legislatures, on radio and television, in the pages of the American Medical Association meetings and in books, one of the most recent of which is entitled "Death by Decision: The Medical, Moral and Legal Dimensions of Euthanasia."

Written by Jerry B. Wilson, associate professor of philosophy at Jacksonville State University, the study is being distributed by the Westminster Press, the publishing house of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

As outlined by Wilson, the religious debate about euthanasia and death with dignity raises moral questions such as these:

"Should life be preserved as long as technically possible? Are there circumstances in which life should be terminated?"

"Should patients who are suffering and dying be allowed to die by withdrawing or failing to employ life-sustaining procedures? Should their lives be taken by death-dealing narcotics? Should the purchase price be the lowest price at which the residence was ever offered for sale. Q. I have not received my refund check. We moved after our tax return was filed. How can I find out what happened to the check?

Depressed area development proposal

To the Editor:

Residents of economically depressed areas in Illinois will have an opportunity to upgrade their condition with the passage of House Bill 1996 during the last session of the Illinois legislature.

I am asking all citizens to write Gov. Walker, urging him to sign the bills.

House Bill 1996 establishes the Illinois Depressed Areas Land Use and Community Development Authority, a regional authority to be located in depressed areas.

The Authority would serve as a public developer and — in conjunction with private enterprise, local citizens and governmental agencies — would carry out comprehensive community development.

The new Authority would work to coordinate federal, state and local efforts and provide for community input in the planning for upgrading depressed areas in Illinois.

In doing this, the Authority would act as a public developer, working with private enterprise to carry out comprehensive development.

Also awaiting Gov. Walker's signature is House Bill 1995, providing an appropriation to the Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development for the building of an industrial park to east of St. Louis.

The bill provides for a three per cent loan to private businesses to build on the proposed site.

Bill 1995 would include a detailed financial structure as to how the redevelopment programs would be carried out. The plan is to be presented to the Illinois General Assembly for its approval. If it is approved, the Authority, in conjunction with state, local and federal governmental units, will implement the plan.

These bills recognize the decline in population, blight, deterioration and decay that are the results of long-term inefficient and wasteful use of land and natural resources, and diminished opportunity for private builders to create housing and business.

The bills provide some real hope for people living in depressed areas, and give them the opportunity to plan together with the state as to how economically sound communities in these areas can be brought into existence.

STATE REP. WYVETTER H. YOUNGER (D, East St. Louis)

Loaners win Depot event

The Waterloo women's softball squad swept through the championship bracket during the weekend without a loss, capturing the first annual combined Class A, Class AA and high school age tournament hosted by the Granite City Cricket squad at the Granite City Army Installation.

Waterloo, which drew a first-round bye Friday, downed O'Neill's (formerly Houser Auto Parts) 27-2; upended St. Mary's of Madison 14-3; defeated Apple Valley of Granite City 6-2; and then met Apple Valley yesterday in the title contest, defeating the local squad 2-1 after overcoming a 1-0 deficit by scoring both runs in the fourth inning.

Apple Valley first downed the Jets 7-4; then Boushard's Remodeling 16-7; and Seebold Concrete 8-5; before falling into the loser bracket upon suffering a first-loss to Waterloo. Apple Valley then moved back into contention for the tournament title with a 5-3 defeat of the local Crickets in a loser bracket contest.

Julie Chrobach went the distance on the mound for Apple Valley in the championship contest, and joined Marcy Branch and Jan Enroe in collecting hits for the team's third-inning run.

Labor Day event booths available

There will be a Labor Day Celebration this year at Wilson Park and concession booths still are available to groups or individuals.

Longo Patterson, president of the Granite City Little Bascals boys' football club, said that fee for these booths are reasonable and often a good opportunity for little league teams or adult softball teams to raise funds.

The carnival will open Friday at 6 p.m. until 11 p.m. and Sat., Sun. and Monday from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Persons wishing to have booths at the carnival are being requested to call Patterson at 931-4253 or Bob Patrick at 876-2000 for more information.

Mercer victory

Mercer's Midget baseball team of Granite City won the championship at the Heine Meine Tournament in LeMay, Mo.

Mercer won four straight games, beating LeMay Plumbing 6-3; Olivette, Mo. 5-4; South Side 8-3; and in the final game scored three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to beat the Carondelet Eagles, the 1975 Missouri-Illinois Khoury League champs, 5-4. This is the fourth year Mercer's team has entered this tourney.

Members of the team included Mike Robertson, Scott Polson, Andy Hintner, Mark Hessler, Jay Borchers, Glen Edwards, John Vrenick, Blake Ambuehl, Walter Towery, Kenny Myracle, Mark Ryan, David Fike, and Bill Dalton. Coaches are Art Borchers, Norman Hessler, Ted Vrenick, and manager, Jake Hintner.

Winning pitchers for the tournament games were John Vrenick, Blake Ambuehl, Scott Polson and Mike Robertson.

Stars top Mitchell event

The Bozycski Realty Stars took first place for girls, ages 7, 8 and 9, in a softball tournament held over the weekend in Mitchell and a second tourney for girls, high school through Class AA, was won by the Country Spot team from Ripley, Ill.

In the younger girls' division tournament, Bozycski pitcher Tracy Emmert was picked as the most valuable player. Her counterpart in the older girls' tournament, Carol Hagler, pitcher for Country Spot, also won most valuable player honors.

Hockey meeting is Thursday

The Granite City Amateur Hockey Association will hold an open meeting Thursday at the Namok Recreation Center, Room Three at 7:30 p.m.

Items to be discussed will include the budget for 1975-76, playing rules, money-making projects, and the appointment of coaches for the season.

Officers for the upcoming season are: Jake Hintner, President; Harold Dix, first vice-president; Ron Bridick, second vice-president; Jo Ann Taft, secretary; Joe Hessler, treasurer; George Grove, chaplain, and Bill MacFarland, sergeant-at-arms.

Openings in BAC courses

Openings in several adult education courses in the Belleville Area College's fall semester, which starts this week at Granite City High School South, are announced today by M. A. Wittevrang, BAC coordinator here.

About 300 persons have registered for the evening schedule of classes, Wittevrang said. The start of three courses is being postponed one week and ongoing registrations will continue this week in three other classes, he noted.

Registrations will be accepted from 1 to 8 p.m. each weekday at the BAC office at South High or by calling 651-2668 or 877-1512.

Courses with openings which are being postponed one week include "Know Your Car," now starting Sept. 8; and "G.E.D. Review" and "Beginning Cash and Food Decorations," both commencing Sept. 3.

Openings also are available in both sewing courses, "Woodwork and Furniture Refinishing" and "Real Estate Transactions." The latter class starts Thursday night.

Driver dies in I-270 bridge crash

Harry Benoy, 48, Collinsville, was injured fatally when his eastbound car went out of control and struck the railing on Interstate 270 at the Chain of Rocks Canal Bridge at 2:10 p.m. Friday.

Rescue workers required nearly 45 minutes to free Mr. Benoy, who was pinned in the wreckage. His car was demolished.

Mr. Benoy was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was declared dead upon arrival at 3:08 p.m. Friday. He suffered cuts to his face and chest and his chest appeared to have been crushed, it was reported.

His body was released to a Collinsville funeral home.

CHARGE MOTORCYCLIST Joseph Wade, Rural Route Two, Box X, Granite City, was charged with a stop light violation, driving on a revoked driver's license, fleeing and speeding (70 miles-per-hour in a 45 mph zone) after police alleged stopping his motorcycle near Namekill and Pontoon roads at 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

NEW PONTOON BEACH BUSINESS. Wholesale Carpet Jobbers, 4010 Pontoon Road, is now open and will serve as the company's Midwest Headquarters in offering new marketing concepts in carpeting and associated flooring products to this area. Ed Agles of Wood River, store manager, says the new store specializes in factory overruns, cancellations and closeouts from brand name carpet mills, with hundreds of full rolls of the latest styles and colors.

He said the firm has another store in Collinsville and plans to operate two more in St. Louis within two years. The Pontoon Road store has 15,000 square feet of floor space and employs a staff of trained salespeople. It is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

News notes

Gulf Oil Co. officials said last week that gasoline prices could go up as much as seven cents a gallon with the end of the federal crude oil price controls. The firm said it will not "take undue advantage" of the situation and will delay passing on increases to customers for as long as possible.

Romel Wilbon of East St. Louis, trustee on the East Side Levee and Sanitary District Board who was found dead Wednesday in a hotel room at New Orleans, La., died of a brain hemorrhage while he slept, according to an autopsy report completed Friday in New Orleans. Wilbon, 53, was a leader in levee district and East St. Louis Democratic politics.

Young Democrats of America favor U.S. Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana as their choice for the 1976 Democratic Presidential nomination, according to a straw vote during the organization's national convention in St. Louis last week.

Gov. Daniel's last week signed a bill that allows township supervisors serving on county boards to hold both elected posts until the next supervisors' elections in 1977. The bill was passed after Attorney General William J. Scott ruled that supervisors elected to county boards last fall vacated their supervisor posts when they took the county board oath.

Committee chairmen and captains working to promote approval of an $800,000 bond issue referendum in the Madison School District are scheduled to meet Tuesday night to consider selection of a site for a new junior high school, which the bond issue would help finance. A referendum on the bond issue will be held Sept. 27.

The demand for electricity over the Illinois Power Co. system reached a new peak of 2,446,820 kilowatts between 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. Thursday. This was 4 per cent above the 1974 peak of 2,351,500 kilowatts on July 18, 1974.

Alton school teachers and the Board of Education have signed a new three-year contract, ending a negotiation stalemate that threatened the opening of schools this week. The new pact guarantees that 60 per cent of anticipated state revenues will be applied to the teachers' present salary index.

St. Louis officials are considering an offer by the Terminal Railroad Association to give Eads bridge to the city in return for toll-free use of MacArthur bridge. An aide to Mayor John Fester said the railroad association "is not giving anything" to the city since St. Louis would lose thousands of dollars in bridge tolls if it accepted the offer.

Henkhaus appointed court administrator

It was announced Friday that Michael Henkhaus, 32, Mitchell, has been appointed to the post of court administrator for the Third Judicial Circuit. Henkhaus has been employed by the Madison County Circuit Clerk since October 1964, serving for two years as chief clerk of the Criminal Division and eight years as chief clerk of the Probate Division.

He previously was employed by the Madison County Highway Department, the Alton State Hospital and the Olin Corp. in East Alton. Henkhaus will begin the duties of court administrator on Sept. 1.

The court administrator pilot project is a federally-funded experimental project of the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts. Henkhaus will act to provide administrative support for judges of the Third Judicial Circuit. Joseph Barr will become the chief circuit judge on Sept. 1.

School lunch policy fixed

Venice School District 3, has announced its policy for free meals for children under five. The full price of meals and milk served under the national school lunch, school breakfast, and special milk programs.

School officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

For a family of one, the limit of income for free meals and free milk is $3,230, while the limit on family income for reduced price meals is $4,800. For a family of two, $4,240 and $5,830; three, $5,250 and $7,350; four, $6,260 and $8,770; five, $7,190 and $10,060.

Six, $8,110 and $11,360; seven, $8,950 and $12,530; eight, $9,790 and $13,700; nine, $10,530 and $14,770; ten, $11,310 and $15,840; eleven, $12,090 and $16,890; twelve, $12,810 and $17,940. For each additional family member the income limit for free meals and free milk increases $750, and for reduced price meals increases $1,050.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free meals, free milk and reduced price meals. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply. Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The in-

Metric education moving fast—not inching along

This fall, Illinois schools will no longer be inching—or even centimetering—their way toward conversion to the metric system. Schools will begin in earnest to meet the State Board of Education's 1960 deadline for full conversion to teaching the metric system "as the official instructional system of measurement throughout all phases of public education in Illinois."

"Most Illinois school children," according to State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin, "have already been introduced to metrics in their mathematics or science classes."

"However, we must change our emphasis from teaching metrics as an additional system which might be used—or one which is used by other people—to one which we will be using soon," Dr. Cronin said. "Today's kindergartners will be graduating into a world which no longer measures by feet and pounds, but by meters and liters."

He said the U.S. is the only nation that neither uses the metric system exclusively nor is in the process of officially adopting it.

"The quaint English system we use is being abandoned even by the English, who began the switch to metric in 1965."

"Canada, one of our major trading partners, began the metric switch this year," he added.

Dr. Cronin noted that although Congress has yet to take definite steps toward metrication of the U.S., several American firms have decided on their own to convert.

Seven-Up began distribution of liter and half-liter containers in Minnesota and Florida, and the U.S. wine industry will be converted to metric by 1978. Major auto makers, as well as Caterpillar, IBM, Sears &

Roebuck and Dow Corning, are among the industrial firms converting.

Dual measurements can be found today, he noted, on American dress patterns and canned goods—and even on road signs in Ohio.

Illinois is among 37 states that have taken action toward having metric taught predominantly in their schools, Dr. Cronin said.

On April 24, 1975, the Illinois Board of Education adopted a policy statement calling for full conversion in the schools. Shortly thereafter, a set of proposed guidelines for metric education was developed by the state education agency and sent to local-level school administrators for their comments and suggestions.

Dr. Cronin foresees the next year as one of planning and training teachers. The state education office has provided metric workshops to school districts for more than a year, he said.

In addition, this fall the education office will provide consulting services to advise school districts on available curricula and materials and will assist in selecting and obtaining library materials.

Dr. Cronin, who sometimes wears a "Take Me to Your Liter" button, acknowledged that he has heard plenty of grumbling from adults about the change.

State education office personnel got an earful recently at a "Metric Madness" exhibit featuring metric education, he noted. Workers there reported that while many school children recognized the metric materials and were even enthusiastic about them, their parents were decidedly reluctant.

Dr. Cronin quoted Philip C. Jones, assistant editor of the American School Board Journal, who wrote, "For those who grow tall by the inch and heavy by the pound, the metric system at first may seem a tight mental griddle."

Dr. Cronin commented, however, that the state will try to ease that squeeze through metric education programs for adults.

The system is actually easier and more efficient, he said, and it takes less time to teach. "This country will be metric very soon," he predicted, "and we want to make sure our children—and our other citizens—are ready when this happens."

Red Peppers plan events

The Granite City High School South Red Peppers, sponsored by Beverly Frazier, began the 1975-76 school year with a board meeting Wednesday night. Plans were made to promote school spirit throughout the year.

Topics including homecoming, dances, and "color days" were discussed. "Color days" are school days when the students are asked to show their spirit by dressing in red and black for an important game that night.

The Red Pepper board and varsity cheerleaders attended the freshman orientation day program Thursday to help build spirit in the freshman class.

Red Peppers is open to any student at GCIS South and regular business meetings are held on the first and third Thursdays of each month.

IN KOREA

Army Captain Karl L. Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Ellis, 4035 Lake Drive, Granite City, is serving with the 4th U.S. Army Missile Command in Korea.

Student activity tickets offered

Gilbert Walsmley, principal of Granite City High School North, noted today that the Granite City Board of Education encourages all students to participate in as many school activities as possible.

In order for this to be possible, the board has provided a $5 student activity pass which will entitle a student to have free admittance to four home football games, nine home basketball games, six home wrestling meets, the homecoming play, three vocal concerts and every issue of the school newspaper.

Normally, admittance to athletic events and plays is 75 cents for students and the school newspaper sells for 10 cents an issue. All the activities would normally cost a student $17.85 if he or she were to pay for them individually; the activity ticket will save the participating student $12.85, Walsmley explained.

Any GCIS North student can begin purchasing the $5 activity ticket starting tomorrow before school, in the main office from 7:30 a.m. to 7:55 a.m., or daily in the high school cafeteria during his or her lunch period.

Checks should be made payable to Granite City High School North, he concluded.

Open house at GC Realty

Granite City Realty Co. will hold an open house from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday at the firm's newly-remodeled offices, 1561 Johnson Road, Herman Schroeder, the company's proprietor, has announced.

The open house is being held in recognition of Granite City Realty Company's recent affiliation with the Gallery of Homes, a national network of real estate professionals specializing in residential sales.

"We feel that our association with the Gallery of Homes will prove a very beneficial service for our customers. Through this new service, we can help our customers buy or sell a home anywhere in the nation — a service which especially interests people who must relocate," Schroeder said.

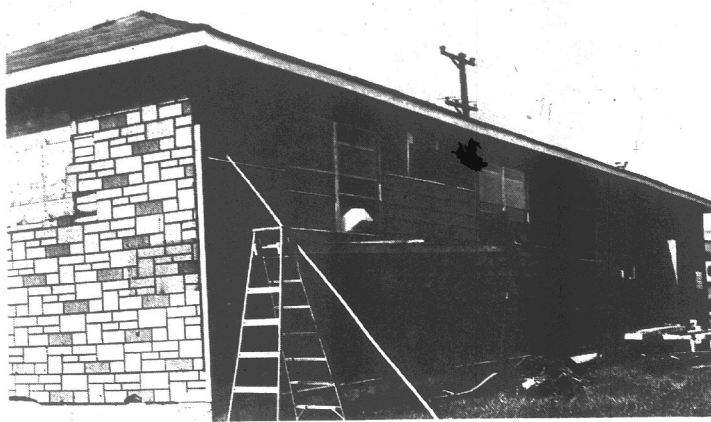

The open house will feature Granite City Realty's remodeled offices, and a prize, a 16"x20" family portrait by G. A. V. M. A. C. O. L. O. R. Photography, is valued at $86. To accommodate its Gallery service operation, Granite City Realty has enlarged its facilities, providing an atmosphere in which home buyers can browse and shop. Schroeder said. Large color photographs show the firm's listed properties, and the office's new picture window affords a view of all listed homes any time of the day or night. Thus, customers now can see realistic portrayals of various homes at their convenience.

"By affiliating with the Gallery, we can offer our customers a complete and efficient service. Furthermore, customers are assured of professional, courteous treatment when using the Gallery's national real estate network," Schroeder said.

In addition to its affiliation with the Gallery, Granite City Realty Co. is a member of the Realtors and the Multiple Listing Service.

RISKY BUSINESS. Clarence "C.J." Pare, who says he is "hurt near 81," handles a shallow frame loaded with bees with his bare hands. He says, "If you can't stand to take a sting or two, you shouldn't be in bees, that's all."

How to get stung when your business is booming

By JEFF NELSON

DIVERNON — Before it was over he took six bee stings. One on each ear, another on the back of his neck, the rest on his arms.

"If you can't stand to take a sting or two you shouldn't be in bees, that's all. You know, if you're coward enough, or afraid enough, or if they disturb you — lots of times bees will make you swell up and stuff like that, when they sting. Now if that occurs, you've got to overcome that some way and not be afraid of them. Or else you've got to wear gloves and clothes to stand it. And I'll tell you, as hot as some of the bee weather is, I don't want all that extra junk on me."

C. J., without his recently extracted teeth, but with a bearing aid in each ear, nitroglycerin tablets in his pocket — ready for a fourth heart attack when and if it should strike — and finely wrinkled skin, is 80, "hurt near 81," and has been raising bees since he was 14.

That's 66 years. And for nearly all the years since he got out of the Army — he served in World War I — he's been raising bees commercially.

C. J.'s been cutting down on honey production in these recent years — doctor's orders — down to 40 or so. This year he's spending much of his energy trying to get back in shape.

"I took these supers and divided them to make — used them to make new hives out of. Ten new hives."

"Supers" You've seen a domestic bee hive, or pictures of one. A hive looks like a bunch of shallow wooden boxes stacked, layer by layer, until it's three, four or five feet high. Each one of those boxes is a "super."

As the hive grows in late winter and spring, supers are added to accommodate the bees' growth and for storage of honey. A careful beekeeper will watch his bees, making sure they fill up supers before adding the next. If he adds too early, the super beneath will not be completely filled; too late and the bees will become crowded and swarm. They will leave a skeleton crew behind to grow into the old hive while they create a new hive.

Besides swarming because of overcrowdedness, there are only two other times a queen will leave the hive — short orientation flights for a new queen to prepare her for mating, and, her mating flight. She mates once; it's good for her several year life span.

There's one other time a hive will swarm:

"Sometimes they don't have enough to eat. A bunch of them will leave so that they can leave a smaller bunch in there to consume the honey. And the bunch that's left will hang on a tree or something and starve to death, see. They're funny. They don't care nothin' about dying. They care about that young hive and keeping it going."

"If it gets too hot it can melt the honey down, melt the wax down. Now when they're fanning and cooling, they'll come out and stand on one side. And they'll stand up right on their legs with their hind end stuck right in the entrance there, and they fan so fast you can't tell they got any wings. And they'll drive that air right in. And there's other bees stationed someplace and they pull it and drive it on up higher and then it comes down and crosses over on the other side. And you can hold your hand down there and tell that it's hotter coming out of there than it is going in. They can change eight or 12 degrees in temperature there, by fanning."

And you see, with the melting point of honey, the bees they've saved their crop, see."

In his younger days C. J. built a couple of glass-sided observation hives and spent hour after hour watching his bees.

Even at age 80 C. J. Pare will be out there in his bee yards, taking a few stings now and then, hustling those supers around, preparing for harvest in the few months ahead.

All the experts say it's going to be a heck of a year.

DR. WILLIAM R. KEEL, president of Belleville Area College, will be the guest speaker at the annual new teachers reception to be held Wednesday, for Granite City School teachers and Thursday, for the Madison School District in the lobby of the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank.

Hurt in fight

A disturbance at Kirkpatrick Homes at 11:05 p.m. Saturday resulted in one youth being charged and another being hospitalized.

Carol Null, 4110 Kirkpatrick Homes, alleged one young man entered her yard and asked she and other women friends if they wanted to earn some money. She said she ordered the youth from her yard.

She alleged he returned a short time later and threatened her, using obscenities. Several men nearby came to her aid and a fight ensued, it was alleged. A juvenile came to the aid of the boy who first spoke to the women.

Police were called and found a 15-year-old Cahokia boy bleeding from the face. He was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was admitted with a broken nose and head injuries.

Terry Gebhard, 20, Cahokia, was arrested at Kirkpatrick Homes and was charged with disorderly conduct and battery.

Market, 4085 Pontoon Road, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 30.

Venice — Tri-City Grocery, Broadway, noon to 7 p.m. Aug. 29.

Venice — Eagle Park Improvement Association, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Aug. 30.

Mrs. Treece, 59, dies here

Mrs. Lena E. Treece, 59, of 1820 Spruce St., ill for one year, died at 9:35 p.m. Thursday at St. Elizabeth Hospital, where she had been a patient one week.

She was born in Illinois and resided here 47 years.

Mrs. Treece owned and operated Lena's Beauty Shop for 20 years prior to retiring in 1970.

She was a member of Tri-City Park Tabernacle.

Her husband, Otto Treece, died in 1958.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. John (Linda) Cholevik of Granite City; three brothers Clifford, Aron and Kenneth Black, all of Granite City, and two grandchildren. Funeral services were held Saturday. Details are given in the obituary column.

Mayors to meet

The Southwestern Illinois Council of Mayors will meet Wednesday at the Lewis and Clark Restaurant, Route 3, East Alton.

The hospitality hour will begin at 6 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m. and the meeting will start at 8 p.m. Host will be Mayor William Magurny of Wood River.

The speaker will be Tim Maupin, a consultant with Callaghan & Co., of Chicago. He will speak on "Employee Benefits," from a study done in the Chicago metropolitan area.

GC schools set cost policy for lunches

Granite City School District 9 has announced its policy for reduced price lunches and free milk for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the national school lunch and special milk programs.

School officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

For a family of one, the limit of income for free meals and free milk is $3,230, while the limit on family income for reduced price meals is $4,520; family of two, $4,240 and $5,830; three, $5,250 and $7,250; four, $6,260 and $8,770; five, $7,190 and $10,060.

Six, $8,110 and $11,360; seven, $8,950 and $12,530; eight, $9,790 and $13,700; nine, $10,550 and $14,770; ten, $11,310 and $15,840; eleven, $12,060 and $16,890; and twelve, $12,810 and $17,940. For each additional family member the income limit for free meals and free milk increases $750, and for reduced price meals increases $1,050.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free meals, free milk, and reduced price meals. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

Authorities must consider both the income of the family during the past 12 months and the family's current rate of income to determine which is the better indicator of need for free or reduced price meals to reflect family wage earners' present level of employment.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child nutrition programs, no child will be discriminated against because of his race, sex, color, or national origin.

If there are any questions concerning the program, application procedure, or if there are income changes during the year, applicants may contact the building principal or Dale C. Rea, assistant to the superintendent at the Board of Education office.

Kennerly named to school aide post

Allen Kennerly, a biology and science teacher at Granite City High School South last year, has been named an administrative aide to the Granite City Board of Education to coordinate programs at both Granite City High Schools.

Kennerly will spend half of his day at each school. Victor Busker formerly held the administrative aide position prior to being appointed assistant principal of GCHS North earlier this summer.

The board set Kennerly's salary at $15,000 for the 10-month position.

The board of Education also filled two teachers' aide positions created under the Title I program. Named to the positions were Ruth Winters, 4060 Central Lane, and Barbara Kennerly, 2233 Iowa St.

Seven persons were hired to teaching positions. They are: Mary Jacobs, Belleville, to teach middle primary at Niedringhaus School; Rita Overath, 3044 Mockingbird Lane, to teach English and Spanish at Prather; Marilyn Parker, 3257 Kilarney Drive, to teach Title I remedial reading; and Ann Rollins, 4277 Reveille Lane, to teach upper intermediate classes at Marshall.

Also, Barry Schroeder, 2722 Center St., to study upper intermediate at Marshall School; Ronald Simpson, 2518 State St., to teach Title I remedial reading; and Angela Shult, 2810 Dogwood, to teach special education.

The school board accepted the resignations of three employees. Accepted with regrets were the resignations of Beverly Hartenbach, a GCHS South math teacher; Vicki Burkhardt, a special education instructor; and Jeannette Cross, a cafeteria worker at South.

The board decided to continue three campus monitor positions created at the July 15 meeting, but endangered when the anticipated funding was discontinued.

It had been hoped to place two monitors at South and one at North with their salaries paid by the Madison County Map-power Grant.

A reduction of funds to the Manpower program has made it impossible for those salaries to be paid from the grant, so the board was asked to reconsider creating the positions.

Despite the cost, which is expected to be about $25,000, the board decided that the monitor positions are necessary and agreed to continue the program at the expense of the district for one year.

Dash of history will spice students' food

There will be a patriotic ring to many of the school activities during this coming year. Even the school lunchroom will be dishing out history.

A cooperative project, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the American School Food Service Association and the Illinois Office of Education, hopes to add a dash of history to the menu and serve up a large helping of nutrition in the classroom.

Called the Child Nutrition Bicentennial Program, it features a series of menus highlighting events in the nation's past, as well as classroom materials reviewing the development of agriculture in America and offering information on nutrition.

Theme of the project is "200 Years of America—30 Years of School Lunch."

Menus featured range from "President's Table," with Chicken Mt. Vernon, Martha's Mashed Potatoes, Salad Mimosas, Lincoln Log and Dolly's Fruit Pudding, to "Immigrant Special," with Mexican Tamale Pie, German Coleslaw, Greek Ambrosia and Irish Bread.

Another monthly menu, called "Industrial Revolution," features Wall Street Bearish Steak, Blue Collar Potatoes, Capitalist's Coleslaw, Nuts and Bolts Mixed Vegetables, Union Roll and Gold Bar.

Kicking off the project will be the all-American lunch, to be served during National School Lunch Week Oct. 12-18. And what's more all-American than a cheeseburger and French fries?

Banners will be awarded to schools participating in bicentennial lunch programs. Details on the awards are being sent to school superintendents and school lunch managers, or can be obtained by writing: School Food Services, Illinois Office of Education, 100 N. First St., Springfield, Ill. 62777.

Judy Evans on Bicentennial radio program

Judy Evans, a student at Wilson School in Granite City, will be highlighted during a special Bicentennial program broadcast on WBBM Newsradio 78 in Chicago on Sunday, Aug. 31, at 4:24 p.m., and rebroadcast Monday, Sept. 1, at 3:23 a.m.

The program is one in a series which is featuring some of the entries in Secretary of State Michael J. Hawlett's Bicentennial essay contest.

Judy's essay will be aired with three others on the contest theme, "What is the Spirit of '76'."

Sub-committees in each of the 24 Congressional districts from the news media currently are selecting the best essay in each of three divisions from their respective districts.

The final 72 essays will be judged by Secretary Hawlett's Bicentennial Committee that selected the winners in the Bicentennial license plate contest held last year.

The committee, consisting of business, professional and civic leaders, will narrow the essays to the best in each division. A grand champion named this fall will be awarded a $1,000 educational savings bond. The two runners-up will receive $500 bonds.

CAR TRUNK THEFT

Items valued at about $365 were stolen from the trunk of the auto of Bill Gathright, 202 Watson St., Eagle Park Acres, parked at Second and Webster streets in Madison, it was reported at 1:05 a.m. Friday. The trunk lock was broken and taken were a calculator, the spare tire and wheel, school books, clothing, the car jack, four hubcaps and a briefcase.

Barbecued grills 'hot,' Specialized workers say

Specialized Services barbecue grills have been a hot item this summer, according to Loren Cook, production director. The grills, made out of barrels, have been in production by handicapped clients at the Alton and Collinsville workshops and offered for sale to the public.

There are about 250 clients at centers in those two cities and Madison.

The demand for the grills stems partly from the fact that they cannot be purchased from any store. Barrels are sawed, filed, painted and assembled by SS clients on an assembly line. The grills are on a stand with wheels, and redwood shelves are built in front and on the bottom. They have a hinged lid with holes on the bottom and vents on the top to create a draft.

It takes a couple of hours for clients to put one together, Cook said. About 200 have been sold this summer. At present, only 55-gallon grills are available. The cost is $45. There had been a waiting list, but Cook says there are some available for people to order, and more are being made.

The grills were produced last year for the first time. Clients work on them as a contract. The work is part of their training toward eventual placement in a job in their community.

DAY'S END. Coming back into the dock on a typical summer day at Rice Lake Conservation Area. The 1,383 acres of water on the site provide 15 1/2 miles of shoreline making for excellent fishing, though the area's main purpose is to attract and provide food and shelter for migratory waterfowl.

Extend hours for SIUE book returns

The extended hour schedule for book returns at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville began today according to James Oglesby, supervisor of Textbook Services at the University. Daily hours of operation will be: Aug. 25, 26, 27 and 28, from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m.; Aug. 29 from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.; Aug. 30 from 8 a.m. until noon; and Sept. 2 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. The office will not be open Sept. 1 because it is a national holiday. Deadline date for the return of textbooks for the summer quarter will be Sept. 2 at 5 p.m. Students returning books late will be charged a penalty fee, Oglesby said. Textbook Services is located in the basement of Lovejoy Library.

Rice Lake Area dedicated to attracting migratory waterfowl

Editor's Note: This is one of a series on Illinois' state parks and memorials.
By JOAN MURARO

PEORIA — Though it is located within easy driving distances of both Little America and Canton, Rice Lake Conservation Area is really just a typical Illinois riverland bottom slough area in Fulton County.

Right there, along with good old Miserable Island. Despite the picturesque names, the area, located about 25 miles southwest of Peoria and two miles west of the Illinois River to which it owes its basic existence, is chiefly dedicated to the highly utilitarian purpose of reestablishment of migratory waterfowl.

Good fishing is a nice side-light, since there are 15 1/2 miles of shoreline in the area, with a maximum depth of five feet in the 1,383 acres of water, and a plentiful population of, among others, largemouth bass, bluegill, sunfish, crappie, channel catfish, bullheads and carp.

The state first began acquiring land in the area in 1943. Minor purchases and additions since have resulted in the present 2,617 acres, roughly half of it in water. Croplands and timber make up the rest.

The initial purchases were financed from hunting licenses, and a share of the tax on firearms and ammunition.

Though there are deer, fur bearers and wood ducks in the stands of timber, the chief concern at Rice Lake Conservation Area is to attract migrating waterfowl. To make the area desirable to them, and to supply their needs while they are there, vegetation has been reestablished and controlled, and stands of millets and sorghums are grown on tracts which are flooded each fall. The area thus becomes part of a statewide refuge system providing both food and sanctuary for ducks and geese.

Because of the terrain and the plentiful moisture, the area is also a popular spot for mushroom hunters during the spring months.

The conservation area has one main picnic area which is provided with tables, drinking water and toilets, and there are facilities for both tent and trailer camping. Electricity for trailers is available. As in all Illinois Conservation Department properties, campers must obtain a camping permit from the site manager, on arrival.

For boaters, there is a launching ramp, and rental boats are available. Motors are limited to 10 horsepower.

During hunting season, hunters must deposit their hunting licenses and migratory waterfowl stamps in the area office, while they hunt. Shooting is from assigned blinds only, and all unclaimed blinds will be filled at a morning drawing held daily at the area check station. (Permits are void after 5 a.m., central standard time.)

Hunting parties must use a minimum of 12 duck decoys, and hunters are urged to contact the site manager for specific information regarding either waterfowl species, or dates.

The site manager can be reached at R.R. 3, Canton, or information can be obtained from the information and education division of the state Conservation Department, State Office Building, Springfield, 62706.

Barge operations explained

Jack Hynes, vice-president of the Sioux City Barge Lines of New Orleans, spoke on "River Traffic" at Thursday's meeting of the Optimist Club.

He reviewed the changes in river traffic through the years and explained the present day equipment and sizes of barges in use today. Hynes said barges used on the upper rivers of the Illinois and Missouri which pass through locks have 1,500 horsepower, while those used farther south that do not pass through locks have 10,000 horsepower.

Tow boats are now equipped with radar and two radios, one of which is tuned to an emergency station. The other radio is used to contact the home port, the speaker reported.

He said the average-size barge is 195 by 35 feet and draws 12 feet of water, using 10 horsepower to complete normal operations. Those working on the barges are on 12-hour shifts with six hours of duty and six hours off duty for a 30-day operation. They are then relieved of duty for 30 days. Salary of the workers range from $18,000 to $20,000 for six months work.

Mr. Hynes added the big barges cost about $3.5 million and added the importance of having lock 26 at Alton is related to the present delay of 24 hours at times to get a barge through the locks.

The speaker said there are 20,000 people employed on boats and 80,000 working on land to continue operations on the nation's inland waterways, involving 1,850 different companies, owning 18,000 barges and 43,000 tow boats.

A former club member, Harry Johnson, now residing in Galveston, Tex. was introduced as guest for the day.

Program chairman Leo Konzen announced Clifford Blankenship will be the Aug. 28 speaker. Blankenship has selected "Yours and Ours Competitive Enterprise System" as his topic.

Revision in water quality rule on dredged material

Citizens and representatives of interested groups are being invited to comment and suggest changes in a newly-approved Army Corps of Engineers regulation designed to protect the quality of waters of the United States against harmful discharge of dredged or fill material.

A series of four regional hearings will be conducted next month by a team from the Office of the Chief of Engineers, Washington, D.C., headed by Brigadier General K. E. McIntyre, deputy director of civil works.

Two hearing sessions will be held at each of four locations around the nation, and will include officials from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The regulation, published July 25 and released for public comment for 90 days, implements Section 404 of Public Law 92-500, the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972.

Environmentalists have urged protection for rapidly disappearing productive wetlands of the nation through a permit system for major disruptive activities.

Widely separated locations for the public hearings have been selected to give the public greater opportunity to participate and present regional views.

The first public hearing is scheduled for Sept. 10 in Annapolis, Md.

Other scheduled hearings are: Sept. 12, in San Mateo, Calif.; Sept. 23-24 in Baton Rouge, La.; and Sept. 25 in Omaha, Neb. Times and places for the hearings will be announced as soon as they are firm.

Following the public hearings, Corps district engineers throughout the country will conduct public information meetings to inform the public of provisions of the revised regulation and to address local application.

Corps officials will meet with state officials and coordinate activities with regional offices of the Environmental Protection Agency and other federal agencies.

The revised regulation was published in the Federal Register in compliance with an order of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, and became effective on publication.

As announced at that time, the Corps of Engineers plans a "moderate and reasonable approach" in expanding its authority in a three-phase program over the next two years, a spokesman said.

Phase I, effective July 25, 1975, extends the existing permit procedures now applicable to traditional "navigable waters of the United States" to include adjacent wetlands.

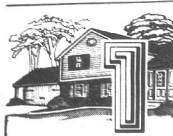

Phase II, effective July 1, 1976, will expand the permit regulation into primary tributaries of "navigable waters of the United States," natural lakes greater than five acres in surface area, and their adjacent wetlands. Phase III, after July 1, 1977, will extend Corps authority into other "navigable waters" generally up to the headwaters, where the streams flow less than five cubic feet per second. All interested groups and individuals can attend and participate in the public hearings.

Written presentations are preferred. However, oral statements will be heard and recorded.

In addition to the public hearings, comments may be submitted in writing, during the 90-day period, directly to the Office of the Chief of Engineers, Forrestal Building, Washington, D.C. 20314, ATTN: DAEN-CWON.

All comments received during this 90-day period will be reviewed and the regulation modified, if necessary, the spokesman concluded.

Mobile homes surging

By JAMES M. WOODARD

The current boom in sales of mobile homes may be a short-term success story. It could simply be the prelude to a strong trend toward the construction of small "basic" houses throughout the country.

Many indications point to the revitalized market for mobile homes. The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), for example, recently established a 24-member National Mobile Home Advisory Council. The group will research and recommend means of improving construction and safety standards in the manufacturing of mobile homes, and generally make them more acceptable to a larger segment of consumers.

Financing is now considerably easier to obtain for a mobile home purchaser than it was just a few months ago. HUD and the Veterans Administration now back mortgage loans for qualified buyers of mobile units. In fact, the VA recently liberalized its regulations, permitting higher maximum loans and longer repayment terms.

Even the much-discussed tax credit law, provided in the 1975 Tax Reduction Act, applies to the purchase of some new mobile homes.

The mobile home industry is standing straight and proud in reflection of its newly donned success image. In fact, even its name will soon be polished up and changed to a more prestigious sound. Mobile homes will soon be referred to as "manufactured housing," say industry leaders.

But all is not sunshine and roses in the fertile garden of "manufactured housing." The repossession rate has risen substantially on mobile home transactions during the past two years. Last year, 40 out of every 1,000 loans ended in default, according to a report by the American Bankers Association. In 1973, the default rate was 26 out of every 1,000 loans.

Many buyers who purchased their mobile home with a minimal down payment are simply turning their units back to the lenders, resulting in a "voluntary repossession." They then move into a rental apartment or acquire another type of housing — something they feel better suits their own situation.

LOOT MUSIC STORE

A six foot by seven foot plate glass window on the south side of John Fornasewski Music Store, 3009 Nameoki Road, was broken with a concrete block and a musical control box and mixer amplifier were stolen at 1:35 a.m. Sunday. The window breaking activated the store's burglar alarm, but the burglars had fled by the time police arrived.

Youth shot, is critical

Jackie Bush, 16, of 225 W. Chain of Rocks Road, remained in critical condition today at St. Elizabeth Hospital where he has been a patient since suffering gunshot wounds Aug. 16.

He reportedly was on Slough Road at Chouteau Slough when he was shot on the left side of his neck and shoulder and on his right arm.

Pleper infant is stillborn

Karen Ann Pleper infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan (Kathy) Pleper, 1720 Brennan Ave., was stillborn at 4:10 p.m. Saturday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Also surviving are the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. David and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Pleper Jr., all of Granite City.

HAYSTACK RIDE — Patty Simpson of Millstadt R.R. 1, a junior majoring in special education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, found herself "airborne" when 15 of her friends suddenly picked up the haystack on which she was relaxing. Hay is cut in many places on the 2,600 acre campus because budget constraints will not permit regular mowing of fields. At no cost to the University, an area farmer harvests the hay, rolling it into circular bales weighing 1,200 to 1,500 pounds each.

SACRED HEART SCHOOL MENU FOR TUESDAY

The menu for Tuesday, Sept. 2, at Sacred Heart Catholic School will include: Beef ravioli, green beans, beefs, peanut butter sandwich and peaches.

Menus for the remainder of the week will be published in the Tuesday, Sept. 2, issue of the Press-Record.

FIRE DAMAGES CAR

A short in the wiring system of a 1963 auto belonging to Opal Belleville, 2515 Northridge St., caused $150 damage to the vehicle at 4:15 p.m. yesterday at 20th Street and Madison Avenue. Firemen were on the scene 30 minutes.

NONN IN FAIR CONDITION

Granite City Fifth Ward Alderman Walter Nonn was reported in fair condition today. He remains in the intensive care section of Incarnate Word Hospital, St. Louis. Nonn suffered a heart attack at home Aug. 18.

TAKE GUN FROM STORE

A nine millimeter pistol, valued at $267 was stolen from a display case at Western Auto, 2001 Grand Ave., during store hours Saturday. The gun was in a display case which normally is kept locked. Officials were unable to determine how it was removed.

HURT BY TRAIN

Joe Greenwalt, 19, of 2309 Washington Ave., fell or was knocked down as he tried to grab onto a moving train at the Niederrhain Avenue crossing at 1:30 a.m. Sunday. He suffered an injury to the little finger of his right hand and was released from St. Elizabeth Hospital after a splint was placed on the wound.

MRS. PENNY OUSLEY IS JOILY 12 HOSTESS

Mrs. Penny Ousley was hostess to the July 12 Card Club Thursday at a meeting held in her home, decorated with arrangements of fall flowers.

The hostess served luncheon prior to the games and awarded prizes to Jean Barnes, Kathryn Smithson, Emma Steinberg.

Also present were guests Mrs. Rita Barnhart and Mrs. Thelma Scroggins and members Mrs. Pauline Stephens and Ardell Lange. Mrs. Stephens will host the Sept. 18 session.

Britain's share the wealth turns to share the poverty

By VIRGIL PINKLEY

Britain's economic problems and many attending matters are much, much worse than ours.

To start with, inflation in Britain is galloping along at about 25 per cent annually.

Production has fallen off sharply. The British no longer are able to compete successfully in many markets of the world because their labor costs have skyrocketed.

Today a double room at the Savoy hotel costs over $50 a night, with taxes and various fees in addition.

Perhaps the following from a letter written by a school teacher in suburban London, whose husband is in engineering, will be revealing.

"The National Health Service being what it is I think I could prescribe better for myself if I could only diagnose exactly what I have. Over four weeks ago I had a throat infection.

"It started with my feeling terribly ill one day, no strength, just as though I had the flu. My eyes were puffy and cheeks swollen. The doctor said 'Pharyngitis.' I was given a course of antibiotics, which I had taken before without adverse results. But after seven days of tablets my throat had healed but my face swelled up and I thought one day my eyes were going to close.

"You get 10 minutes with your doctor here, after a long wait, so you have to speak quickly, and usually mine doesn't listen."

The letter continues, "Also

I had spots all over the front of my neck, most unsightly. This was two weeks ago.

"I have had three containers of ointment and the spots are fading but some are returning. My face feels burning hot all the time, but it does not look hot.

"I put calamine lotion on it when I get desperate. Last Friday I suddenly felt terribly ill again and did not go to school. The doctor has given me antihistamine tablets this time, but I have no confidence in what he thinks.

I have a permanent hot, itchy face and chin, and spots.

"I've stopped taking the tablets and tomorrow I'm going to ask him if I can go for a blood test. He may say 'no' as they don't like to be told their job. Oh, to be able to go privately and pay for a check-up and have an allergy test. It would be heaven."

All of this under Britain's so-called "free" public health service.

Then she writes about parcels of used clothing sent by friends in California, and says, "They get us out of the depression of inflation and instant Communist take-over just to have the thrill of opening one of the parcels.

Production seldom is finished with the used clothes sent from your daughter I have a dear friend with two younger girls, and she is just as excited about getting them as we were."

At the end of World War II Britain decided to go Socialist and to share the wealth. Well, the wealth is virtually gone and there is nothing left to share but poverty. If things get really worse the country probably will turn to communism. The classic pattern is that socialism starts on the funds and savings created by the capitalist system. Once the Socialists have gone through what is left of the alternative is communism.

There has been a steady march toward nationalism in Britain, and it is carried on by both Socialists (the Labor Party) and the Conservatives.

Apparently the British Socialists believe that if you have a stomachache from eating green apple pie the cure is to eat more green apple pie. Therefore, nationalization says that the only method to achieve better times is increased nationalization. Practically every nationalized business in Britain is operating at a deficit and has been since it was nationalized.

The unions have demanded fantastic wage increases and extensive fringe benefits, which have been granted regularly for 25 years. Many of the union leaders are Communists and a high percentage of shop stewards, who really run the unions in the factories, are Communists.

Production seldom is finished with the used clothes sent from your daughter I have a dear friend with two younger girls, and she is just as excited about getting them as we were."

Pontoon plans flag contest

The Pontoon Beach Village Board Friday announced that it is conducting a flag contest to have a village flag designed in conjunction with the nation's Bicentennial observance.

The contest is open to anyone in the village with no age limitations. Postcard-sized drawings of flag designs will be accepted through Oct. 1. A 10-speed bicycle will be the prize for the winner.

The design selected will be made into a village flag which will be used thereafter for village activities.

At the village board's regular Friday night meeting, property belonging to Gary, Pat and Brenda Withers, Rural Route One, Box 355, Highway 162, was annexed. Plans are to establish a camping trailer sales and service business at that location.

Patrolman Michael Goodman of the village's police department was appointed a temporary sergeant to receive sergeant's pay as long as he serves in that capacity.

Merchants alerted for phony $20s

Two counterfeit $20 bills received by merchants in Granite City are among four which have been passed in the Illinois portion of the metropolitan area during the last two weeks, the U. S. Secret Service confirmed Friday.

Merchants are being alerted to watch $20 bills given to them to determine if they are counterfeit.

The Secret Service noted several ways to identify the bogus bills, the most obvious being the face plate, check letter and back plate numbers. The same numbers also appear on legitimate bills and should not be considered proof the bills are illegal.

The face plate number, which is located in the light field toward the upper left corner of the bill has a "G" followed by a small number "1". The face plate number is small and is located below and to the right of the numeral 20 in the upper right corner.

The check letter number, located near the lower right edge of the bill is "G 25" on the counterfeit money.

On the back, again near the lower right and in the light area between the photograph of the whitehouse, and the outer rim around the figure 20, is the back plate number which is "168" on the fake bills.

Closer examination of a counterfeit bill will show other differences, but if those three numbers are on the bill, it should be suspect of being counterfeit and the person accepting the bill should attempt to get a description of the person passing the bill, and if possible a description of his vehicle and license number.

A Secret Service spokesman requested anyone presented with a suspect bill to accept the bill, attempt not to act suspicious, and when the person using the bill leaves, write down everything possible about the person and his description, vehicle or other information.

After all pertinent information has been written down, the bill then should be examined closely before police

Intruder in funeral home

An official of Thomas Funeral Homes, which is being remodeled at Pontoon Road and Franklin Avenue, told police at 2 a.m. Saturday that he was sleeping inside the funeral home when a noise in the cash register room awakened him.

He said he saw a youth searching through the room service when the official entered the room, the youth asked him, "What are you doing here?" He said he responded to the youth with the same question, to which the youth answered, "They dropped me off." He told the youth to get out and the young man walked out and went west in the alley. Police found the rear door of the funeral home had been kicked open.

The intruder was described as about 6 feet, 1 inch tall, having light hair to below his shoulder, bad acne, and wearing a blue tee shirt and blue denim pants.

are notified. Police emphasized most of the bills with these numbers are real and the bill should be examined carefully.

Upon closer examination, the bogus bills bear several similarities, the Secret Service told the Press-Record. There are no tiny blue and red fibers in the paper, as there are in real currency.

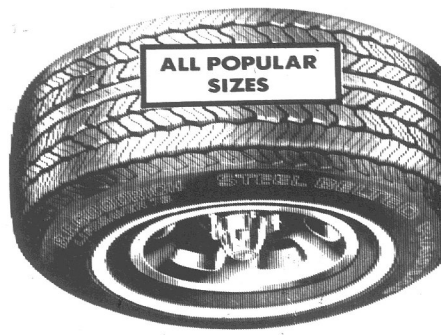

The portrait of President Jackson is light in many places and the edges of the green Treasury seal on the front are uneven and have some broken points, according to the Secret Service.

The serial numbers do differ on the bills and can not be considered a clue, it was disclosed.

Anyone receiving a bogus bill is requested by the Secret Service to call the Granite City Police Department, detective section, at 876-9027, or the police at 877-6111.

Bills having the same numbers as the bogus bills, but not showing any of the above signs, should be considered legal, police emphasized.

WE'RE OFFERING PRICE PROTECTION ON 1976 CORDOBA!

Unusually high public acceptance of Chrysler's gorgeous new small car in 1975 has brought dealers' stock of cars to the point where the color or equipment you desire may not be available. If we cannot fill your '75 order from current stocks, we will guarantee our quoted price for a '76 model equipped the same way. This is a limited offer expiring Sept. 21st, so check out our prices TODAY!! We'll put it in writing!!!!

SIUE Anthropologist Wants Traditional Industries Saved

by Tommye Walter

It is wrong to assume that every nation should lose its cultural heritage and environment in imitation of industrial nations, according to Thomas J. Maloney, associate professor of anthropology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Maloney recently returned from Costa Rica where he spent months researching traditional industries with the idea of preserving them. From findings in his study, Maloney is convinced it is not in the best interest of foreign countries we are trying to aid to send them a lot of expensive machinery. Much of modern technology, he feels, does people out of jobs, uses up precious energy, pollutes the atmosphere, and causes people to desert the rural areas for the cities, where there is little room for them. Not only that, the migrants from the country have no skills for available urban jobs.

"They have skills, but the skills are not useful in an urban industrial culture," Maloney said.

While he was in Central America, Maloney studied the small sugar mill, called a "trapiche" in Spanish. The trapiche produces "tapa dulce" or "panela," loaf sugar. Among the small sugar mills he observed was one located in the village of San Rafael de Pos, a community of 300 to 500 people.

"It was a sweat-shop type of operation, with workers paid by the piece rate," Maloney said. They live in wooden shacks topped with tin roofs, with water and outhouses nearby.

Maloney rented a house in a village outside the capital, San Jose, while he did his library research and interviewed government officials. Then he moved to the countryside to observe the trapiche operations more closely.

Maloney noted that cane grinders arrive for work at 2 a.m. and remain on the job until 3 p.m. The rest of the sugar workers come at 4 a.m. and work until 6 p.m. Darkness falls swiftly in the tropics.

The man who owns the trapiche at San Rafael de Pos owns his own cane fields. In some instances, a team of oxen is used to move cane from the field to the mill. There, cane juice is pressed from the cane fibers by a mangling process. Then it is cooked over fires fueled with the discarded cane fibers, or "bagasse."

When the sugar has boiled to a certain point in deliquidation, it is poured into a canoa, a vessel where the sugar is stirred slowly as it cools. A lot of sugar is used in making bootleg rum, or

"guaro." The rum is quite potent, Maloney said, and inexpensive. "There is a great deal of alcoholism," he said. "Apparently, a lot of people who work with sugar become addicted," he explained.

Trapiches are slowly disappearing from the lives of Central Americans. Five years ago, there were 24 trapiches in the area of San Rafael de Pos alone. Today half of them have disappeared, sometimes dismantled by other cane growers who salvage parts for their own mills. "They were taking one apart while I was there," Maloney said.

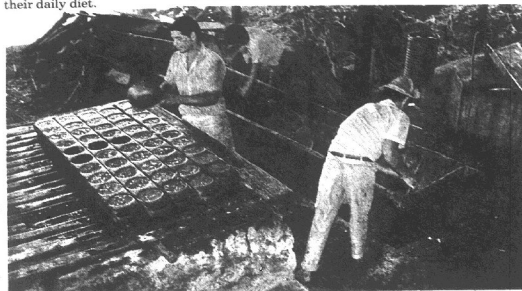

In defending the traditional manner of sugar-making, Maloney said, "The trapiches are almost self-contained. The cane supplies its own fuel. Ashes from the fires are taken out to the field and spread on the ground as fertilizer. Even the scum removed from the juice during the cooking process is fed to the swine as part of their daily diet."

Traditional Christmas cakes in Costa Rica are baked with tapa dulce. It is used in the batter, in the frosting, and sometimes in syrups drizzled over the top of the cake.

A lot of sugar is used in making bootleg rum, or

AH, THE SWEETNESS OF IT ALL—A worker in a Costa Rican sugar mill stirs cooked cane juice. Thomas J. Maloney, associate professor of anthropology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, believes traditional industries such as this should be preserved.

STICKY WICKET—Several steps in the process of Costa Rican sugar making are shown here. A worker (left) pours raw sugar into molds, while two workers behind him stir cooked cane juice. The spaghetti-like mass in the background is spent cane fibers.

$2,000 in liquor taken

Gene Presley, 2410 Edison Ave., who owns the Trojan Cafe in Madison, reported at 9:50 p.m. Saturday that beer and liquor, with a total value of about $2,000, had been stolen from his garage.

Entry was gained by kicking a wooden panel out of the garage door and handing the liquor out through the hole. Taken were three plastic trash cans containing assorted bottles of beer, about 10 cases of beer and about 10 cases of assorted whiskey and wine.

Community college trend in U.S. began in Illinois

The story of higher education in Illinois has been one of increased access for more people. In the antebellum period higher education combined classical subjects and religious philosophy in a strong liberal arts curriculum. The initial state effort, the Normal schools and the University of Illinois, emphasized the more utilitarian goals of teacher education, engineering, and scientific agriculture.

This movement was primarily associated with the post-Civil War 19th century and meant to deal with the upwardly mobile, academically oriented student. Also, the expense of tuition and living away from home limited such education primarily to economically healthy families.

The growth of the community college idea is based on faith in the common man and in the American way, representing a continuing hope for an educational manifestation of the aspirations and ideas, the optimism and democracy, of Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson. (And in many ways tensions between the liberal arts and vocational/technical training on present-day campuses reflect an oversimplified misreading of the differences between the elitist Virginia planter and the practical frontier soldier from Tennessee.)

Thus, the oldest public junior college in the United States, Joliet Junior College, founded in 1901, was born in the midst of a major period of political reform aimed at making a greater share of the promise of American life available to more people.

Junior colleges did not play an important part in higher education in Illinois, however, until after World War II, and the first legislation pertaining specifically to them was not passed until 1937. The crush of veterans seeking admission to the University of Illinois and other existing state institutions after World War II led to the establishment of a series of two-year branches around Illinois to accommodate them. These would become the focus of the junior-college system.

Following a series of studies in the 1950s, the Illinois legislature authorized the creation of independent junior-college districts in 1959. In 1965 the legislature passed the Public Junior College Act creating the Illinois Junior College Board. Its objectives included upgrading existing public junior colleges and eventual division of the entire state into junior-college districts. At least 15 percent of the curriculum was mandated to fields leading directly to employment.

At the time, a disparate group of 16 junior colleges offering little vocational-technical training constituted the nucleus of the new system. Within a year, however, 23 applications for districts were received and approved by the new board. By 1975 some 39 community college districts in the state operated 48 campuses for 327,170 citizens in credit and noncredit classes (increasing from 66,217 in 1965). All but one district is operated by local boards and financed by local as well as state tax monies. The community college of East St. Louis operates solely with state tax money.

The decision to extend state support to community colleges was, in one sense, a major departure from the development of higher education in the state. It added vocational training to the liberal arts/scientific curricular goal and taught a new nonresidential and place-bound clientele with few practical limitations on age or occupational status, or lack of it.

Community colleges theoretically bring higher education within the reach of every high-school graduate in the state, extending in effect, semi-free public education from kindergarten through grade 14. In that sense the community colleges are very much a part of the broad trend to spread the benefits of education to as many of the state's citizens as possible.

Two cars stolen, burned

The car of Terry Hendrick, 208 Kirkpatrick Homes, was driven from Kirkpatrick Homes by a boy, about 16, at 12:40 a.m. Friday and was found burning between the 2800 blocks of Jorden and Sheridan avenues at 2:02 a.m. Friday.

A witness said he saw a boy driving the car from the housing project. He said the boy was slender, about five feet, eight inches tall and was wearing a brown long-sleeved pullover shirt and brown and white striped pants.

Firemen said a burning rag was found in the car seat which was believed used to start the fire. The 1964 car was destroyed. Firemen were on the scene 15 minutes.

At 2:30 a.m. Friday, police found another 1964 auto of the same make burning at Lincoln Avenue and Henry Street, again started by a burning towel in the car seat. The fire caused about $50 damage.

Cyclist faces five charges

James D. Howell, 2317 Miracle Ave., was charged with five traffic violations after police alleged chasing his motorcycle from 27th Street and Madison Avenue to Highway 162 and the railroad tracks at 9:05 p.m. Thursday.

Howell was charged with attempting to elude police, not having his motorcycle registered, going through a red traffic light at East 25th Street and Nameoki Road, speeding (85 miles-per-hour in a 35 mph zone), and not having a motorcycle classification on his driver's license.

Three police cars were involved in the alleged chase.

STEAL MOTORCYCLE
The blue 1973 Kawasaki of Wayne Reuter, 1705 State St., was stolen from in front of his house, he reported Thursday. The motorcycle has yellow stripes on the tail light and gasoline tank.

Thinking of Selling Your House?

By Virginia Knauer

Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

There are five of you now, in a house you originally bought for three—and the place is bursting at the seams. Is this the time for you to buy a bigger house?

Or maybe there are just two of you now, rattling around in a house that's much too big because your children are all off on their own. Should you find a smaller place to live?

One way or the other, you are seriously thinking of selling. But is this the right time?

Before you decide, you will have to ask and answer many personal questions. No one else can help you with them.

But you can get help with the factual questions that affect your family budget. Here are a few of the basic economic questions you should consider before you put your house on the market:

• Is the timing right as far as mortgage money is concerned? As a seller, you could be frustrated if you put your house on the market at a time when would-be buyers were having difficulty getting loans. As you know, availability of money for home mortgages varies, depending on the state of the economy, on bankers' estimates and on various government actions.

To get a line on the current situation—whenver you consider selling—study the business and real estate news in your local newspaper and consult with real estate agents and with officials at banking institutions that make loans for home mortgages.

• Should I consider financing the mortgage myself?

There are advantages to this, if you can afford it—that is, if you do not need the entire cash sum immediately. For instance, if you do sell your house on the basis of a long-term installment contract, you can defer paying taxes on the sale of your home. And you—not a financial institution—collect the interest on the installment payments.

For more details on this point, check with your local or district Internal Revenue Service (IRS) office. Also ask them—if you are an older person—about tax breaks available to homeowners who are 65 years of age or older when they sell.

• Should I put the house in the hands of a real estate agent or should I sell it myself?

Since agents' commissions range between 6 and 10 percent, you could save money if you do the home work necessary to sell a house. Check your local library for books on this topic and look for a local adult education course, if you have time. You will need an attorney to protect you on contractual arrangements.

• If I use an agent, should I give one firm the exclusive right to sell the house, rather than agreeing to a multiple listing?

There are pros and cons to exclusivity. Some agents claim that with an exclusive, they concentrate all their efforts on the house.

Other agents say that if you put your house on a multiple listing, it will be exposed to more potential buyers.

One way or the other, no consumer should tie himself or herself up with an exclusive contract on a 4- or 5- or 6-month basis. Do it on a month-to-month basis only.

• I've heard that a homeowner may make less profit selling to a buyer who gets a Veterans Administration (VA) or Federal Housing Administration (FHA) mortgage. Why is this?

Interest rates on VA and FHA mortgages are set by law at fixed rates that are usually lower than rates charged for conventional mortgages.

To compensate for these lower VA and FHA interest rates, lending institutions charge special fees called "points." Each point equals 1 percent of the loan; on a $50,000 loan, for instance, a point costs $500.

However, under government regulations for VA and FHA mortgages, only one point can be charged to the buyer. The seller must pay the remaining points. With a charge of six points, the seller would pay five, and with a $50,000 mortgage, the seller's five points would deduct $1,500 from his profit on his house.

Sellers can limit the number of points they will pay. Be sure your contract with the buyer states that you will not pay more than a certain number of points.

If you have any questions about these mortgages, call the local office of the VA or the FHA; ask for home loan information. Each agency is listed in your phone directory under "U.S. Government."

Madison club attends theater

The Madison Ladies City Organization attended the Plantation Dinner Theater in lieu of a regular monthly meeting last week, to view "Catch Me If You Can," starring Bruce Gordon.

During dinner Mrs. Winnie Sasyk, president of the group, appointed Mrs. Eleanor Armour to the office of marshal.

The Plantation manager presented a cake to Mrs. Mary Rogenski in honor of her birthday and to Mrs. Sasyk in observance of her anniversary.

Those attending were Rita Lybarger, Julia Voloski, Pam Dymas, Julia Goclan, Frances Trotts, Mary Krekovich, Maxine Costello, Josephine Knezevich, Sue Miller, Ellen

Scrum, Juanita Brown, Marie Hoekstra, Ova Carlson, Cora Barr, Margaret Michels, Mildred Burgess, Diane Koishor, Glenda Carico, Mary Bush, Virginia Nichols, Mary Yoboy, Mary Macek and Margaret Minzes.

CARD CLUB HONORS

MRS. LIBBY LOMBARDI Mrs. Libby Lombardi received a birthday gift from her card club members at a meeting Thursday night in her home, 3405 Lydia Lane.

Those excelling in the games and winning prizes were Agnes Schwarzkopf, Grace Range, the hostess and Virginia Roberts, a guest.

Refreshments were served to those named and to Margaret Richardson, Grace Hennrich, Leona Parente and Augusta Lampe, another guest.

Mrs. Parente invited the group to meet in her home, 1621 Lindell Blvd., for the September meeting.

Retired Persons board meeting set

Mrs. Vina Law, president of the local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons, has announced a board meeting of the group will be held at 7 p.m., Wednesday at the Senior Citizens Center, 1918 Edison Ave.

Fifty members attended the senior citizen day at the state fair and members of the organization's Kitchen Band also attended the state contests of Kitchen Bands held that day, according to Mrs. Law.

The president will review the program of the August meeting which featured a presentation by The Bell Choir of Senior Citizens of Madison, directed by Dorothy Lionberger. A history of the bells and an explanation of the selections played was given by the director.
